Bus Accident Fatal to Two In Pittsburgh

Vehicle Plows Into Crowd; Driver Says His Air Brakes Failed

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A bustling intersection in downtown Pittsburgh became a scene of horror Tuesday as a commuter bus jumped a sidewalk and plowed into a crowd during the evening rush hour.

Two persons were killed and 16 were injured, four seriously.

The Brentwood Motor Coach Co. bus was approaching a knot of waiting passengers at Smithfield Street and Forbes Avenue when it veered out of control. The driver said his air brakes failed.

The bus climbed the curb, cut down a fire alarm pole and a street light then tore into the crowd and nosed against a plate glass display window of Kaufmann's department store.

Three of the screaming victims were flung through the window. Several others were trapped under the bus.

One of those killed was Sam Hood, 40, a reporter and art critic for the Pittsburgh Press.

Also killed was Mrs. Sally Flynn Strait, 54, of nearby Baldwin. She was head cashier at the Roosevelt Hotel.

The stunned bus driver, Jay Lane, was treated for minor injuries and released on $10,000 bond pending an inquest on a technical charge of manslaughter.

Lane was so distraught he was re-admitted to a hospital shortly after midnight suffering shock.

Diplomats Expelled

Iraq, U.A.R. Face Diplomatic Break

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Relations between Iraq and President Nasser's United Arab Republic sank to a new low today as a result of the revolt against the left-leaning Iraqi government.

The Baghdad government claimed it had smashed the revolt against Premier Abdel Karim Kassem and reports spread that some of the rebel army officers were trying to escape across the Syrian border. Other reports said fighting was still going on, apparently by desperate holdouts trying to flee the country.

Claim Village Strafed

The U.A.R.'s semi-official Middle East News Agency charged that Iraqi planes had shot up a Syrian border village. The agency also reported that Iraqi planes had strafed several Iraqi villages in the Mosul area near the border.

Kassem meanwhile expelled 10 U.A.R. diplomats assigned to the Baghdad embassy, declaring they were a menace to public safety. The Baghdad correspondent of the Middle East News Agency also was ordered out.

Nine of the ousted diplomats arrived in Cairo and reported that the Baghdad government apparently was still digging in for a fight.

Oppose Red Influence

First reports of the revolt made clear that the rebellious army officers wanted to swing the Iraqi government toward Nasser and opposed the growing influence of the Iraqi communists on Kassem.

Military governor Ahmed Saleh el Abdi in a broadcast over Baghdad radio blamed a "foreign power" for sparking the rebellion. It was plain he referred to the U.A.R. Street demonstrations staged in Baghdad to support Kassem turned into anti-Egyptian rallies.

Nasser's news agency accused Iraq of taking "provocative measures against the U.A.R." As yet, however, there was no retaliatory expulsion of Iraqi diplomats from Cairo.

Details of the army revolt were still sketchy.

Diplomatic informants said the rebels had pulled out of the northern oil center of Mosul where Col. Abdel Wahhab Shawaf and a group of pro-Nasser followers launched the rebellion Sunday.

A terse report from Baghdad radio indicated the government had regained control of Mosul sometime Tuesday. It said the military governor of Iraq had clamped a curfew on the northern city.

Nasser Launches First Public Attack at Kassem

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic accused Iraq Premier Abdel Karim Kassem today of adopting a hostile policy toward the U.A.R. and of changing the original course of the Iraqi revolution.

Speaking to crowds of demonstrators who chanted "Kassem is a traitor," Nasser launched his first direct attack on the leader of Iraq's Communist-influenced government.

Nasser called the Communists "agents of a foreign power."

2 Women Here Are Overcome By Gas Fumes

Two Marion women were reported recovering at General Hospital today after being overcome by natural gas fumes in an Uncapher Ave. residence this morning.

Mrs. Nicholas Myers, 88, of 445 Uncapher Ave. and Mrs. Agnes Irven, 70, of 133 W. Fairground St., who was staying with Mrs. Myers, were found unconscious in the house when police broke in shortly after 9:30 a.m.

A daughter of Mrs. Myers, Mrs. Samuel L. Hinamon of the Smeltzer Rd., went to her mother's residence a little before 9:30 to help clean the house.

Finding the doors and windows all locked and unable to rouse anyone inside, she went to the home of Mrs. George R. Darling at 448 Uncapher Ave. and asked her to call police.

After police forced open a door and found the house filled with gas fumes and the two women still living, they called for the fire department inhalator crew and an ambulance.

Inhalators were operated on both for 25 minutes after which they were taken to the hospital in a Hughes-Hyll ambulance.

Spokesmen at the hospital said at 11:25 a.m. that Mrs. Myers was in "fairly good" condition and Mrs. Irven was listed as "fair."

Police said the gas fumes were believed to have come from a defective furnace. They said that it was reported to them that the furnace had been giving some trouble before.

Session Set June 21-27

Star To Send 5 Young People to Forest Camp

The Marion Star, through its membership in Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., again will sponsor the attendance of five Marion County youths to the annual Ohio Forestry Association training camp.

This year's camp period is scheduled June 21-27 in Tar Hollow State Park, a 16,000-acre area situated south of Adelphi on State Rt. 327 in Ross County.

The Brush-Moore sponsorships are made possible through a memorial fund established in memory of the late William H. Vodrey, who was secretary-treasurer, general legal counsel and a founder of the publishing firm.

This will mark the third year the forestry camp has been held at the Tar Hollow site.

Purpose of the venture is to acquaint boys and girls with the problems associated with forest management, wood utilization, reforestation, forest fire control and watershed management, among other things.

The camp, staffed by experts under the direct supervision of the Ohio Forestry Association Youth Education Committee, is limited to students who have not attended before and have passed their 15th but not their 18th birthdays on June 20 of this year. They must have completed the ninth grade of school.

Each Marion County camper will pay $5 as his or her share of the total fee, with The Star contributing the balance of $25. Other expenses are met by the O.F.A.

Heading this year's camping program will be Richard Shell, executive head of the Hartford School in Croton, O. He will be

Eisenhower Still Opposes Hike in Defense Spending

Ground War In Europe Is Out, He Says

President Cautions Against Being Lured Into Fighting Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the United States has no intention of fighting a ground war in Europe.

At a news conference, however, he declined to say flatly that nuclear weapons would be used by American forces in the event the Soviets start shooting.

He said firmly the United States will do whatever needs to be done to protect its rights and responsibilities in West Berlin.

Will Never Back Up

This government, he said, will never back up in the face of Soviet pressure there.

At the same time he said the free world is not going to become hysterical and go off half-cocked over the Berlin crisis.

Eisenhower said he believes the American public is more soberly aware of dangers in the Berlin situation than a lot of people around Washington.

A reporter had asked the President if he feels that the people recognize the dangers in Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's demand for the withdrawal of Allied troops from West Berlin by May 27.

Aware of Seriousness

The country knows how serious the situation is or it wouldn't be voting all the money that is being required for defense, Eisenhower promptly replied.

He added, however, that those who are advocating still greater defense spending should have the courage to back higher taxes to pay for it.

He was obviously still standing pat on his defense program in the face of Democratic criticisms.

Eisenhower was asked for his reaction to Khrushchev's proposal for a four-power guard in West Berlin.

The President replied with some asperity that he doesn't ever expect to be in the business of reacting instantly to one of Mr. Khrushchev's wisecracks or whatever the Soviet Premier calls them.

The free world is going to use the same democratic procedure that the United States uses in dealing with such problems, Eisenhower said. He said that is the proc-

Warning Issued For Heavy Snow

Heavy snow warnings for the north and central portions of Ohio were issued today by federal weather forecasters. They said a heavy snow, with accumulations of four or more inches, would begin spreading over the state this afternoon and tonight.

Their forecast for Thursday was for mostly cloudy and cold weather, with the snow diminishing. The low tonight is expected to be between 25 and 33 and the high Thursday in the 30s.

A high of only 37 was recorded Tuesday, after which the mercury began a drop that hit an overnight low of 22. By 7:30 this morning it was back to 25 and had reached the 29 mark at noon.

Probers Scan Red Activities In Pittsburgh

Secret Agents Reveal Identities, Warn of Menace to America

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A subcommittee of the House un-American Activities Committee kept its spotlight today on Communist strategy and techniques in the heavily industrialized Pittsburgh district.

The three-man subcommittee called 12 witnesses at Tuesday's opening session of the scheduled three-day hearing here.

Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Hamp L. Golden of Pittsburgh, who publicly revealed for the first time that they were undercover agents for the FBI in the Communist Party nearly 13 years.

Was Undercover Man

Another witness, Reuben J. Hardin of Large, Pa., testified he served off and on as undercover man in the Communist Party for police agencies and the FBI from 1931 to 1954.

Golden, an employe of H. J. Heinz Co., said the Communist Party in the U.S. is more dangerous now than ever before because it operates underground through various front organizations.

Golden revealed he joined the party in August 1946 at the request of the FBI. His wife joined a year later.

"We were told our principal target was labor unions, particularly in the steel, electrical and food industries and in industries with defense contracts," said Golden.

Pittsburgh Vital Center

Hardin testified that Communist leaders in the United States feel that "Pittsburgh is the most important part of the country to control because of its iron and coal.

"I was told that if the party could control coal, it could control the nation," added Hardin.

Except for the Goldens and Harden, all the witnesses cited the Fifth Amendment and other provisions of the constitution in refusing to answer questions.

Subcommittee members are Rep. Edwin E. Willis (D-La), chairman, and Reps. William M. Tuck (D-Va.) and Gordon E. Scherer (R-Ohio). They hope to wrap up the investigation by Thursday.

Lengthy Debate Staged

Ohio House Approves Quail Hunting Season

By DUANE E. CROFT
Marion Star Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Ohio sportsmen Tuesday won House approval of a bill to permit quail hunting in the state for the first time in 46 years.

Opponents, led by Reps. Bernice MacKenzie (D-Stark) and Clara Weisenborn (R-Montgomery), staged a valiant fight to extend the present status of the popular bird for another 10 years.

But sponsors of the bill, including Reps. Guy C. Hiner (R-Stark), Paul Siple (D-Lawrence) and F. K. Cassel (R-Wyandot), carried the day by 93-36 vote.

Basic Argument Repeated

The same basic arguments that have resounded through the legislative chambers every biennium for years on the controversial subject were repeated in the debate marked humor as well as heartfelt appeal on both sides.

As passed the bill would permit quail hunting on land owned or controlled by the state and in private land under agreement between the owner and the state.

The Wild Life Council would set the season and bag limit.

The opponents' major move was an amendment offered by Mrs. Weisenborn to extend to 1969 the present law which places the quail on the game bird list for breeding purposes only. This provision has been in effect since 1949 but will expire next October if no action is taken.

That would permit a hunting season with no specific statutory limitations.

Cites Controversy

Mrs. MacKenzie, speaking in favor of the amendment, cited the widespread controversy over the issue, which has evoked more mail for many legislators than any other subject before the session.

"This session of the legislature is faced with the danger of digging one-half of its own grave politically," she said. "It is very apt to go down in history as the legislature that raised taxes and shot the quail.

"The majority of the people are very strongly opposed to both. But they may come to the point of forgiving the first by recognizing its necessity.

"There is no necessity for the latter."

She said the bird has no food value in comparison to many other targets which sportsmen now have access to.

She appealed to the legislators to "show ourselves capable of settling this emotional issue and get on to more complex issues that face us."

Hiner and Rep. George M. Hook (D-Brown), leading the arguments for the hunting season, said biological and scientific facts show that the quail is damaged more by human removal of its natural cover and food sources than by hunting.

Hiner cited quail breeding experts' reports that millions of quail of superior quality are produced annually and added that hunting is a multi-million dollar industry.

Hook quoted statistics from Indiana and Illinois, which permit open season on quail, showing that both have higher bob white populations than Ohio's.

The Weisenborn amendment was tabled by voice vote of the House.

After several other amendments has been disposed of the debate was shut off and the roll call taken.

Among those voting for the hunting season were: Cassel, Creasy, Drake, Games, Hiner, Hisrich, Lacione, Loha, Longsworth, Nist, Rice, Riffe, Robinson, Rothel, Siple and Leist.

Included in those voting "no" were: Andrews, Caryl, Fisher, Hindlesberger, Lady, MacKenzie and Hildebrand.

President Is Standing Pat On Program

Advocates of Higher Outlay Should Ask for Tax Boost, He Asserts

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today those advocating greater defense spending should have the courage to demand higher taxes.

And, at a news conference, Eisenhower repeated several times that he believes the nation's defense program is adequate to deal with the situation.

With much emphasis, he cautioned against letting the Soviet Union lure the Western Allies into a ground war in Europe.

Would Be 'Miscalculation'

Such a war would be a miscalculation on the part of the Allies in the light of Russia's great manpower reserves, he said.

Eisenhower advanced these views in standing pat on Defense Department plans to cut back Army strength from the current 900,000 men to 870,000, and to trim the Marine level by 25,000 men to a new total of 175,000.

He said he can't see anything small about an Army of 870,000 men, and that he doesn't see anything in the planned reduction to get hysterical about.

In response to a question, Eisenhower said he was not ruling out the possibility of a nuclear war over Berlin.

Sees No Winners

He went on to say, however, that he does not see how such a war would free anyone—apparently meaning he doesn't see how anyone could come out a winner.

And the President said again, as he has before, that if hostilities are started over Berlin, it will be the Soviet Union, and not the Western Allies, starting them.

Much of the President's 20-minute session with reporters was taken up by discussion of the defense picture and the Berlin crisis. This was the eighth regular weekly news conference in a row, tying a mark he set in 1954.

The consecutive string this year adds up to nine and a record if the President's Jan. 14 session with newsmen at the National Press Club is counted.

Today's session touched also on these matters:

KHRUSHCHEV — Eisenhower said that he doesn't think much of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's proposal that Russia and the Western Allies station token military forces in West Berlin.

Eisenhower prefaced that remark by saying he was violating everything he had said earlier regarding the Berlin situation. He apparently was alluding to earlier remarks that the United States always consulted with its allies before expressing an opinion regarding Soviet proposals.

At one point, Eisenhower referred to Khrushchev's proposals

Force West Out of Berlin

Soviet Aim Still Obvious Despite Shifts in Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Every few days now Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev comes up with a new proposal for dealing with the Berlin crisis.

His record is impressive for imagination in fast diplomatic footwork. Sometimes he even seems to contradict himself.

But in the midst of the confusion, which he may deliberately seek in order to obscure the real issues, one fact stands out clearly. He is still pursuing his original purpose, announced just four months ago, to try to force the Western powers to give up their position in West Berlin.

This showcase of Western Democracy and prosperity in the heart of Communist East Germany is an irritant. He may be willing to risk war to remove it.

In the ultimate showdown, most Western officials are convinced Khrushchev will pull back before plunging the world into war. But they also think he will go very close to the brink if he has to in order to test Western determination to hold fast in Berlin.

Khrushchev's latest maneuver came in a speech at Berlin Monday. He said then that the Western powers might keep small garrisons of their forces in West Berlin if they agreed to make that city a "free city" and if a Soviet garrison was also stationed there.

This suggestion seemed to reverse the line he had taken in a note to the United States, Britain, France and West Germany on Nov. 27, when he first made his "free city" proposition and talked about demilitarizing West Berlin.

That was the second move in a series which began Nov. 10, when

Max Birnbaum Speaks to New Kiwanis Club

Tells of Adventures On Visit to Poland He Made in August

A look at impoverished Poland, through the eyes of Max Birnbaum, was presented to the new Town and Country Kiwanis Club at its weekly dinner meeting in the Highway Hotel Tuesday night.

Mr. Birnbaum reported on a trip he took to his native land in August.

He presented a picture of poverty, hunger, suspicion, regimentation, high taxes, and dissatisfaction.

Must Save With Agency

Housewives must get up early to buy food, before the store runs out of produce. Clothing and furniture stores are nearly barren.

Poles must save up in advance, with an official government agency, to pay for what merchandise there is.

Even if a Pole had the money, he couldn't merely walk into a store and buy a suit. He would be asked to explain where he got the money.

Mr. Birnbaum, who was visiting a sister who resides in a town of 50,000 near Warsaw, recounted an experience which illustrates the merchandising mood of the country.

Being an outsider (and recognized instantly as an American because of his good suit and white shirt), he could, and did, buy some furniture for his sister—a cabinet for clothing and some beds and mattresses.

He chose what few pieces were in stock, went to the clerk to make his payment, arranged for delivery, and when it arrived at his sister's home, discovered every piece was damaged. The doors wouldn't close, the locks didn't work, the mattresses didn't fit.

He went to the store clerk to complain.

"Mister, why tell me?" she demanded. "Did I send for you to buy these things? You came in on your own and bought the furniture. It's your worry."

In concluding, Mr. Birnbaum declared: "I love this country, but I never knew that people could live so much differently than we do. Gentlemen, we should get down on our knees every day and thank God that we live in a land of milk and honey, of freedom and prosperity."

Presented by Marion Club

Mr. Birnbaum, who has lived in America since 1913 and who has been a citizen since 1920, was introduced by Vernon Horst, past lieutenant governor of Division 11. Both are members of the Marion Kiwanis Club.

Presiding at the meeting was Smith Witter, president of that club. The Marion club, which sponsored organization of the new Town and Country group, arranged for the program.

The new group's charter night plans were announced by Carrol Lockwood. A dinner will be held April 21 in Harding High School at 7 p.m.

A Kiwanis council meeting scheduled March 18 at Hotel Harding was announced by G. G. Nuetzel. The program will feature a panel discussion on interclub visitations with Mr. Nuetzel, division chairman, Ed J. Wills of Columbus, district chairman, and Robert Strimer, Delaware club chairman, participating.

Visiting Kiwanians in addition to the program leaders were Leonard Young, song leader, Ed Probst and Dr. Thomas Quilter of the Marion club, and E. H. Dreifke of Independence, O.

Other guests, introduced by Robert Haldeman, were Jack Buschkill, J. C. Flohr and Ned Nuetzel.

Take Training Course

Eight persons who have completed a cub scout basic training course were announced today. They were: Mrs. William B. Cardwell, Mrs. Ethan J. Temple, Mrs. Richard W. Taylor, Mrs. Lewis J. Crouse and Mrs. Robert Williamson, all of Marion, and Mrs. Franklin Dennis, Mrs. Cecil George and Mrs. William Lanum, of Cardington.

R. L. Cummings, Walter Sinden and Floyd Williams attended some of the sessions but did not complete the course. It was incorrectly reported in The Star Monday that these three men had assisted the course instructor, Ulmont E. Robinson, in presenting the course material.

Nephew of County Pair First Blind Mt. Gilead School Pupil

The nephew of a Marion County couple is making history in Mount Gilead.

He is 7-year-old David Healea, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Healea of Mount Gilead and the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Healea of near New Bloomington.

The boy has been blind since birth. This year, though, he is taking regular first grade studies in the Mount Gilead School.

David is the first blind pupil to enter the regular classes at Mount Gilead. He is being aided by lessons in Braille which he receives 10 hours each week from an instructor in Delaware, Mrs. Louise Herriot.

David has found school to his liking. His textbooks are in Braille and he uses a special Braille peg board to complete his spelling lessons. Mrs. Clifford Ward, his teacher, reports that the boy is keeping right up with his fellow students and has adapted himself well to the school routine.

Already he has learned to get around most of the school building and has learned where many of the rooms, such as the principal's office, are located.

David's textbooks are supplied through the government but must be ordered two years in advance.

His enrollment in regular classes came about as a result of the state department of education urging blind students to enroll in normal schools whenever possible in order to achieve a more normal life.

David joins in with the other pupils in their classroom recitations, takes part in gym classes and sometimes eats his lunch with his companions in the school lunchroom.

Two times a week he travels to Delaware for Braille lessons and Mrs. Herriot makes the trip to Mount Gilead three times each week.

Plans for County Road Project Are Submitted to State

Plans for improvements to County Rd. 66 under the federal aid program were submitted to engineers in the state highway department's Division 6 office in Delaware Tuesday by County Engineer Reed Ours and Deputy Engineer Lawrence Rengert.

One of the few stone-surfaced roads in the county, it is located on the Marion - Grand Prairie Township line in the Ridgedale School District. Cost of improving the 1½-mile stretch has been estimated at $74,000.

Part of the cost will be borne by the county and the two townships. Grand Prairie Township trustees last fall agreed to pay $6,000 toward the improvement. Marion Township's share was set at $2,300.

Mr. Ours said the road will be blacktopped and made 20 feet wide.

Federal aid for construction of a new bridge over the Little Scioto River was approved last year. Mr. Ours said construction is scheduled to start next month.

He said it is hoped that the road project will be completed this year, but added that it will depend on how rapidly the state approves the plans and lets a contract.

3 Attend Convention

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Luse and George E. Drumm of Marion attended a convention of the National Institute of Dry Cleaners and the American Institute of Laundering at Atlantic City, N.J., last week. Mrs. Luse returned here following the close of the sessions Sunday and the two men remained in the east on business in Philadelphia and New York. As representatives of the Marlyn Cleaners Co. of Lakeview, O., they were exhibitors at the meeting held in the Atlantic City's convention Hall.

Charges Against Man Are Dropped by Court

Charges of violation of the city dog quarantine and assault in a menacing manner were dismissed in Marion Municipal Court Tuesday against Herschel Crawbaugh, 66, of 452 Tyler St.

Pending since Sept. 18, 1958, the charges were filed by Victor Culp, Marion County dog warden. In dismissing the charges the court ruled that the arresting officer had reasonable grounds for arrest and detention, but that the charges should be dismissed.

Crawbaugh was represented by J. C. A. Arter, local attorney.

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the difficult jobs of housekeeping is to wax linoleum and asphalt tile floors. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it's no longer necessary to wax and scrub; just apply Glaxo about twice a year. It maintains a high lustre, non slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor.

Chances for Nomination Aided

Rockefeller Could Have Active Support of Labor

By VICTOR RIESEL

Chances for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to take the Republican presidential nomination were jacked up last Tuesday by a band of Democratic Texans roving the U. S. congressional offices. Mr. Rockefeller may not be aware of all this. The band of Texans certainly were not aware of it. But they were definitely part of a mass move in Washington which has been helping the New York governor's chances against Vice President Nixon.

VICTOR RIESEL

We can start this sagebrush-less saga of the Texans at the moment when they walked quietly into the senatorial headquarters of Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson.

The Texans inadvertently interrupted an off-the-record meeting between the Senate majority chief and the chief of the AFL-CIO, George Meany.

The labor leader was discussing the proposed anti-racketeering bills with the Senate leader. But Meany did not mind being interrupted.

These were not Lyndon Johnson's Texans. They were George Meany's Texans. They were part of the 3,500 delegates to the fifth annual legislative conference of the Building and Construction Trades Dept. of the AFL-CIO. They had met in full convention the day before with similar delegations from all the other states, including Alaska.

THEY WERE second and third echelon officials from the Plumbers, the Electricians, the Carpenters, the Iron Workers and the other unions which lay the roads, hack out harbors and send buildings scraping the skies.

They visited their regional congressmen in state delegations. Unlike the past, they did not just leave their business cards. They came in groups. They had been briefed on lobbying. They did not take too much time.

They came with special research kits. They had charts, graphs and documents which they said backed up their drive for special laws for a 35-hour week, for more money for construction of airports, schools and housing. They carried special questionnaires, printed in advance.

They asked specific questions on whether the solons would support their proposals and their version of the Kennedy-Erwin labor reform bill.

THEY THEN TURNED their questionnaires in for tabulation by Building and Construction Trades Dept. researchers.

And like the Texas group, which also sought out that state's lone Republican congressman, the delegations were non-partisan in their talk and approach. Naturally they were closer to the Democratic congressmen. But not in all states.

Many of the delegates are traditional Republicans. For years their unions have supported Republican candidates all along the line. But all the delegations hewed to the non-partisanship of their lobbying. Even after hours. They ran cocktail parties for all the congressmen from their states.

Tuesday night, for example, the Ohio Building Trades had a dinner and were genial hosts to the two feuding senators as well as to the other Democratic and the GOP people from the Buckeye state.

Their lobbying impressed the Republican congressmen. That was the talk in the Capitol Hill Club where a Democrat couldn't win a poll at a table for two. The talk throughout the week, was that this traditionally conservative labor lobby was now as slick, as publicity - minded, as TV-ed as the militant CIO bloc.

And the talk was that the GOP, or at least the congressmen who had been visited by the old-line AFL construction union officials, would want a national candidate who would not antagonize such forces.

Immediately the conversations turned to Gov. Rockefeller and Vice President Nixon — and their subliminal strategic drives for labor support.

The word is, and it can be corroborated by the results of interviews with Republican leaders across the country, that Rockefeller already is beginning to build his machine for the 1960 convention.

There is no doubt that he wants the presidential nomination. There is no doubt that the Eastern Republicans are saying that only Mr. Rockefeller can neutralize some of the labor machine power.

And after listening to all the visiting delegations from Texas to Alaska many of the GOP congressmen were impressed by the argument that they would need to woo or at least neutralize labor. Even the conservative union chiefs are on the march.

GIRL SCOUTS

Brownie Troop 83 officers elected for March at Pleasant School Tuesday after school were Patty McKnight, a new member, president, Judy Carpenter, secretary and Judy Lehman, treasurer. It was announced that the group has 21 members to date. Report was given on a birthday party held Feb. 24 for Margo Wagner and Barbara Matthes. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Martin C. Lewis, leader. The next meeting will be with other troops at the school for the Girl Scout birthday celebration.

—:—

A party Thursday closed a six-week cooking school for Girl Scout Troop 96.

The party, held in the home economics room of the Ohio Edison Co., was arranged by Miss Ruth Kleinmaier, who conducted the course.

Assisting her were Mrs. William Bishop and Mrs. Donald Ritzler, troop committee members, and Mrs. Rex O'Brien, troop leader.

Acts featured on the program were: "Children's Marching Song," by the entire troop; a pantomime by Susan Minnick; Lynn Newman, Maureen O'Brien and Pamela Ritzler doing the charleston; a skit, "Woman in a Shoe Store," by Bonnie Young, Linda Chapman, Suzanne Bishop and Pam Augenstein; an instrumental number with Paula McCombs and Sue George on clarinets and Maureen O'Brien playing the bell lyre; and Linda Chapman in a vocal solo.

Mrs. O'Brien and Mrs. Ritzler conducted a cooking quiz and Mrs. O'Brien presented cooking badges to the girls. Pamela Ritzler was mistress of ceremonies.

Concluding the program, the troop presented a gift to Miss Kleinmaier and refreshments were served. Troop 96 is sponsored by Oakland Heights School.

School Issue Defeated

CLEVELAND (AP)—Voters of Garfield Heights Tuesday defeated a $2,035,000 school bond issue for a second time. It received an affirmative vote of 50.5 per cent, but 60 per cent was needed. Last November, 52.1 per cent of those voting favored the issue. The proposed bond issue would have financed building of a new 21-room elementary school, additions to the high school and two elementary buildings and repairs to other schools.

Children of the Bible

By Patrick and Garrison

ESTHER

"And he brought up Hadassah, that is, Esther, his uncle's daughter: for she had neither father nor mother . . ."

—Esther 2:7

Her Persian name was Esther, meaning "a star." But her parents originally called her Hadassah, the Hebrew word for "myrtle."

When they died, the orphaned girl went to live with her cousin, Mordecai, who was a vizier to the Persian monarch, Ahasuerus.

The Persians chose a better name, for the Bible tells us that "the maid was fair and beautiful."

Because of her foster father's important position, young Esther lived in the palace at Shushan.

This was one of the most elegant and ornate royal mansions in ancient times. When the girl was first taken by Mordecai into the Apadana or audience chamber, she could hardly believe her eyes.

The lofty ceiling was of cedar, brightly painted and set with designs of metal and colored tile. Supporting it were tall columns of gray marble, topped by capitals of beautifully carved kneeling bulls.

Around her the walls were decorated with patterns set with enameled brick. Elaborately embroidered hangings of purple and scarlet could be unrolled to shut out the glare of the hot sunlight during the day.

The pretty girl who first looked upon the splendor of the King's audience hall little realized that one day this would be the setting for her greatest triumph.

For it was here that she pleaded for the lives of her people who were to be persecuted by Haman, prime minister of the king.

In this, her great beauty was matched only by her courage. "I will go in unto the king," she declared boldly, "which is not according to the law: if I perish, I perish."

Her heroism has become a lasting legend.

Two Vehicles Damaged In Wyandot Accident

BUCYRUS — Two vehicles involved in a Wyandot County collision Tuesday night were slightly damaged, state patrolmen here reported today.

They said the mishap occurred eight miles north of Upper Sandusky at 10:30 p.m. on Rt. 53. A southbound auto driven by Carma J. Heydinger, 18, of Tiro ran into the rear of a slowed truck driven by Harry Sparks, 48, of Sciotoville.

Patrolmen said Sparks had slowed for a railroad crossing.

Murder Trial Opens

CINCINNATI (AP) — Opening statements are scheduled today in the first degree murder trial of Lawrence Zwick, 20. Zwick and two teenage companions, to be tried separately, were indicted for the 62-cent robbery-killing of Everett Duncan, 52, Sept. 30. A jury was seated in Criminal Court Tuesday.

Struck Utility Posts Reward

Power Firm Acts Against Vandalism

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., hit by a utility workers' strike, offered rewards totaling $15,000 today for arrest of persons guilty of damaging company property.

The company, which provides electric power to 23 central and southern Ohio counties, charged that six acts of sabotage had taken place against company installations in the past week.

It offered a $2,500 reward for arrest and conviction of persons responsible for each instance of damage.

About 1,300 members of the International Brotherhood of Electical Workers are on strike against the company. Union spokesmen have denied that any union member was responsible for any of the acts of vandalism.

Joint negotiations between the company and the union may resume Friday.

Galion Women Recall Stage Careers

Former Dancer, Singer Helped Direct Lions Club Variety Show

RECALL MEMORIES. Mrs. Nelson Porter (left) and Mrs. George Piehler recall some of the techniques they used during their stage career. Mrs. Porter was a singer a few years ago while enrolled as a student at Bowling Green State University and Mrs. Piehler was a professional dancer in the 1920s. They combined their efforts last month when Mrs. Porter directed and Mrs. Piehler arranged the choreography for the Galion Lions Variety Show of 1959.

GALION—A pair of worn green satin dancing slippers, a ballet costume and autographed photographs of stage celebrities were among the mementos that Mrs. Eunice Piehler found when she went rummaging through an old trunk the other day. She hadn't thought of these things for years and memories started coming back.

It wasn't quite the same for Mrs. Dora Porter; but she went rummaging too, through her mind to see if she could recall what had started her to directing variety shows.

Mrs. Porter was the director and Mrs. Piehler the choreographer for the 1959 Lions' Variety Show which was presented here Feb. 23 and 24.

"I really couldn't take credit for the success of the show. All I did was 'crack the whip.' Without the performers, we couldn't have had a show. Some were music directors, and some were experienced dancers and singers," insists Mrs. Porter.

Nevertheless, Mrs Porter held the interest of nearly 60 people through rehearsals, some of which started in November. She planned the numbers to be used and who would do them. She sought balance so there would be enough dancing, comedy, instrumental and vocal numbers to hold the audience's interest. If she cracked the whip it was with kid gloves her coworkers say.

The show was one continuous act and the curtain never was pulled until the show ended. There were no waiting for scenery changes, and 24 numbers were presented in an hour and 45 minutes, the time it ordinarily took for 16 acts The show was planned to appeal to people of all ages.

For a number of years, Mrs. Piehler and her husband, George, have resided in Galion and been a part of the civic and social life. Few people know that Mrs. Piehler once was a professional dancer, but the past came out as a result of the variety show. Some of the dance routines "brought down the house."

The recent show brought back memories to Mrs. Piehler of her experiences in show business She prizes autographed photos of Ginger Rogers, Irene Dunn, and others with whom Mrs. Piehler became acquainted when she appeared in the same shows with them.

In Kansas City in 1926 Mrs. Piehler worked with the Marie Kelly ballet as an assistant instructor for a school of 400 dancers. She became a member of a permanent ballet group in 1927, appearing at the old Newman theater in Kansas City and later went on a public circuit in that city. The show later toured the larger cities throughout the South. It was while she was on a food show in Kansas City that she met Ginger Rogers who was appearing in the "Valencia Dance," and again in Tulsa, Okla., when she was in the "Red Heads" and "Toyland."

Mrs. Piehler was married only two years when Marie Kelly wired Mr. Piehler for his permission to let his wife be a special ballet dancer in New York, to fill a place in a show for a time. The show played in Atlantic City and Newark, N. J., before it opened in September, 1928, in New York, at the old Casino Theater. It was "Luckee Girl," and Irene Dunn was the leading lady. On the road, the show was taken to Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, Toronto, Hartford, New Haven, Brooklyn and Boston.

After this, Mrs. Piehler's husband was transferred to cities in Iowa and South Dakota and Mrs. Piehler kept up her interest in dancing by opening studios and dancing classes in these places Since the depression, she forgot about dancing as a vocation. Her talent was "re-discovered" here through a few casual remarks to a friend. For two years now, she has had charge of choreography for the variety shows sponsored by the Lions.

Mrs. Porter thinks back how she started directing shows . She always liked music and her family was musically inclined. Her father, R. R Ehrhart, once a Galion High School vocational shop teacher, led church and community choral groups and organized a high school band. Mrs. Porter was born here and was four years old when her family moved to Lakeside. In Cleveland where the Ehrharts now reside, her mother directs choruses.

At Bowling Green State University where Mrs. Porter went to school three years before she married Nelson Porter in 1947, she was active in a vocal trio and sang with small instrumental groups. She didn't do much with music after her husband returned from service, but she cared for an eight-month old baby and helped her husband when he enrolled at Ohio University for three years. His employment at Mansfield brought the Porters to Galion to live. Meanwhile Mrs. Porter took over a small sheet music business and gradually enlarged it to a music store in her home

Two salesmen who had played with big-name bands often stopped with the Porters for "jam" sessions. One gave a program at the Pro Arte Music Society. This led Mrs. Porter to direct a program with a large cast for the society Later it was produced as a benefit show for the Galion "Y." Three times she has sponsored shows for the Lions' club.

This year Mrs. Porter's husband joined her and was end "gal" in a ballet of men for which Mrs. Piehler was choreographer.

Mrs. Porter has at least four reasons why she has to spend a long time planning the annual show. They are an 11-year-old son, Billy, 7-year-old Barbara, and 4-year-old twins, Jeffrey and Jeanne.

INCINERATE IT!
without smoke or smell

It's a Safer Way—to dispose of garbage than "canning" it for flies and germs to enjoy until collectors come. Just wrap it up and drop it in a tidy indoor gas incinerator, with or without other burnables. That ends it!

Trash Goes, Too—No need for papers, cartons, rags, etc., to accumulate. You can dispose of them immediately in the same clean unit. Even bones and gristle disappear silently! Just a little ash is all that remains!

No Fumes—The gas flame helps to intensify heat within the insulated chamber, to dry and burn the garbage. Fumes are drawn by the downdraft through a jet-like gas "afterburner" and are completely consumed. That's why the new gas incinerators are truly smokeless and odorless. Let There Be Unity

Last week this country advertised that it had achieved unity on its foreign policy as regards Berlin. There were meetings of partisan leaders in the White House, followed by statements that unity had been achieved. Even Adlai Stevenson, nominal leader of the Democratic party, lent his voice to the unity chorus in a speech at Boston. "When the President says we will not give in to force, he speaks for all of us," said Mr. Stevenson.

The purpose of achieving unity by proclamation at this time is to warn the Kremlin that the United States is of one mind about Berlin. But here is a disquieting resemblance between achieving unity by resolution and the fellow who quits smoking by resolution. "It's easy to quit smoking," he explains. "I have done it dozens of times."

The United States never has achieved genuine unity on foreign policy, nor is it ever likely to achieve it as long as free speech in and out of Congress is cherished. True, the whole country can stand back of an official position and invariably does. But there can be no such thing as one mind on the policy that caused an official position to be taken.

Policy is — and should be — subject to never - ending discussion. That is the essence of popular sovereignty, as applied to foreign policy. Merely because differences of opinion should stop at the water's edge, or at the end of the runway, or on the launching pad does not mean they should stop inside the United States.

Time after time, this fallacy about unity has been foisted on the American people, with the effect of making them feel they are out of line if they question what is being done in their name beyond the water's edge—or the end of the runway, or the missile launching pad.

For the most part, the political figures who give voice to the fallacy are not deceived by it. Perhaps they do not intend that it should be construed to mean anything, except that the supreme executive authority of the U.S. government is where the Constitution says it is — in the presidency. But that does not need to be restated. If anyone challenged presidential authority in a military matter it would be an act of treason.

But it is not reasonable to carry on a continuous discussion of foreign policy. That is the way the policy must be developed. That is what popular sovereignty means.

Unity cannot be achieved by proclamation, but continuous discussion can achieve majority decisions, which is as close as a representative democracy ever can get to unity.

There Lies the Economic Rub

When a Spendocrat talks his language, he cannot be understood by any American who has been taught that the only way to stay out of trouble is to keep spending within reasonable range of earning.

But the opposite of this is true, too.

Spendocrats do not understand what the rest of us are talking about when we talk about cutting coats to fit cloth and making ends meet. This is gobbledygook to them. Like Pioneer IV they are in outer space, where familiar dimensions have no meaning.

This breakdown in communication between the bulk of the Americans who do the earning and the paying and the minority of Americans currently in a position to boss the spending is serious.

We do not understand them, and they do not understand us.

To them it seems to make sense to talk about setting the thermosat higher to burn more fuel and to upgrade the grocery buying to nothing but the choicest steaks and the finest grade of everything when we're in debt up to our ears and running behind on current expenses.

To them there is nothing ludicrous about adding a wing to the house or more land to the old place when the house isn't all being used and nobody has time to keep the grass mowed.

To them there is no hint of folly in keeping up with the Joneskies over on the other side of town when nobody knows where the Joneskies are headed, or how fast they are getting there.

To them it seems to make sense to be handing out more cash in gifts and unrepayable loans to poor relations and grifters than is available for fixing up the plumbing.

They see nothing questionable in the practice of paying generous allowances to his over-indulged children when the head of the house has patches on his pants.

To them it makes sense to shove out cash gifts to neighbors who plead indigency but never have been known to give a down-and-outer the time of day if he got down on his knees and asked for it.

They insist that this is the way to get along and that the way to get there faster is to spend even more money than before by going deeper into debt, despite the fact it already takes more than 10 per cent of everything coming in to keep up the interest on debt already incurred.

If the rest of us are wrong about these things and the spendocrats are right, something has gone wrong with our basic education. Everything we've been taught has been upside down and backward.

But if they are wrong, they should be penned up before they do serious damage. That is, of course, precisely what the spendocrats think about us, which makes it a showdown on who's going to pen up whom in time to save the day.

For the 18th Year

Career Day, the vocational seminar held at Harding School Tuesday, has become so much of an institution in the Marion educational program that it is easy to take it for granted.

Yesterday's program was the 18th in a continuous series held for public and parochial high school students, and it is an excellent example of what concerted community action can do in the way of a youth project.

Sponsored by service clubs and other organizations and assisted by virtually every business and professional group in the area, the seminar provided vocational instruction for 1,500 students. There were 75 competent instructors from every field.

Career Day is extremely beneficial for the students and a refreshing experience for the consultants, many of whom rekindle the spark of dedication within themselves while describing their vocations and careers to others.

Science Fair Proves Great Success

The response to the first Marion public school Science Fair was outstanding, both from the standpoint of student participation and public interest.

More than 7,000 people viewed the exhibits at Harding High School last Saturday and Sunday, and without exception all those who visited the fair have been unanimous in praise of it.

This should be most gratifying to the school officials who arranged the event and to the students who labored so diligently in the preparation of the exhibits.

We congratulate everyone who had anything to do with holding the fair, and extend a special word of praise to those 59 students who emerged with superior ratings.

May good fortune be with them as they enter their exhibits in district competition.

Meanwhile, Marion Catholic has its third annual Science Fair under way this week, with judging scheduled today and an open house to be observed Saturday and Sunday.

The Marion Catholic fair has been extremely successful previously and there is every reason to believe it will achieve new heights this year.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

"What have we done?" asked the moon and sun,
"To be bombarded by everyone;
We to the earth have been more than fair. . .
What kind of guys have they got down there "

II

"I've been up here since the start of time;
What," asked the moon, "is my sudden crime?
Songs have I stirred in those earthly jerks."
"Duck," bade the sun, "or you'll get the works!"

III

"Over the ages I've lit the night," Muttered the moon, "and was treated right;
Lovers I've helped with my magic spell."
"Dodge!" cried the sun, "or you won't stay well."

IV

"Love," said the moon, "I have aided much;
Romeo-Juliet knew my touch;
I've done my stuff for romantic kids;
Where are my friends? Have they flipped their lids?"

V

"Pal," said the sun, "it's a bitter cup;
What do you say if we both give up?"
"No," said the moon with a weary smile,

MAYBE WE BOTH CAN HOLD OUT A WHILE."

A state auto association offers advice on tipping. Says the three tests are (1) How good is service. (2) Quality of food. (3) What you can afford. But public timidity inside restaurants is incurable. The average man's three considerations are: (1) Height, weight and reach of waiter. (2) Nearness of table to door. (3) Whether he ever expects to eat in same place again.

Albie Booth, famed Yale football star, rests in a grave within a few hundred yards of the Yale Bowl where he thrilled tens of thousands. It is in St. Lawrence's cemetery, directly opposite, and before days of the Bowl it was divided from old Eli gridiron by just a board fence. May "Little Boy Blue" hear the songs and cheers each fall as they echo over his last resting place.

When two nations make agreements on cultural relations these days do they specify what weapons will be used?

Washington proposes a national listing of autoists whose licenses have been suspended or revoked in any state. This would end current system which permits a potential killer banned in one state to endanger people in other states. (It's such a reasonable idea it may get knocked off early.)

The National League has increased umpires' pensions. They can retire at 55. After an umpire has reached 55 he has lived at least 100 years.

Might Lay a Golden Egg

Absentee Republicans

By David Lawrence

What happened to the 8,600,000 Republicans who voted in 1956 but didn't vote in 1958?

This is the puzzling question that is stirring the Republican party leaders as they strive now to write a platform designed to bring "conservative" and "non - conservative" groups together behind a single expression of party policy.

Lawrence

At first glance, it might be assumed that most of the 8,600,000 Republicans voted Democratic and that, therefore, the Republican platform now might better imitate the Democrats. But a closer look at the Democratic total shows that most of the 8,600,000 Republicans couldn't have voted Democratic. For even if some of them did, this didn't make up for defections from the Democratic party. The total of all votes for the Democratic ticket for members of Congress throughout the nation in the last election was 4,200,000 less in the 1958 congressional elections than the party got in 1956 for members of Congress. Of this total who didn't vote, more than half were in the South. Thus, the loss in the North for the Democrats was about 1,700,000.

TWO FACTS, therefore, stand out. One is that both parties lost votes and, the other, that the Republicans had the larger loss.

But why, it may be asked, do fewer persons vote for members of Congress than for the presidential candidate? A drop-off in the total vote might be expected in an off-year election, because there is no single figure running for office at the top of the ticket but the real question is why the persons who actually go to the polls in a presidential election fail to vote at the same time for members of Congress.

Over a period of 60 years, the gap between the presidential vote and the congressional vote has been steadily widening, irrespective of party. Probably the answer is to be found in the gradual change that has been made in the nature of the ballots in different states and also in the growing population of each state and district. The voters simply do not know the candidates or what they stand for or else the separate ballot for Congress is tossed away by many voters. In the old days, presidential and congressional candidates were on the same ballot, which made it easier for straight-ticket voting.

The losses apply also to residential districts where it would be assumed that the voters would be well informed on current issues. But just why so many millions do not vote Republican any more is a question that the Republicans themselves are debating.

SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER of Arizona is raising the whole question in a series of charts which, as chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, he is preparing to present to leaders and party workers in different parts of the country. These show that only in Arizona, where the Republican party adopted a "conservative" line, did the number of Republican votes actually increase in 1958 over the vote for members of Congress in 1956.

Lest it be thought that there is something special or unusual about the 1958 congressional election, the statistics show that the Republicans, while losing 8,600,000 votes as compared with 1956, had a total vote in 1958 of 3,800,000 less than in 1954. This happened even though the voting population in the country was increasing in the interval.

THE DEMOCRATIC SUCCESS was due primarily to the superior machinery of the Democrats in getting out the vote, principally in the ranks of union-labor families. Thus, the public opinion polls show that in 1958 the labor vote divided 65 per cent to the Democrats and 35 per cent to the Republicans, which is almost exactly what it was two years before in the Eisenhower election.

This means that, as the Democrats got their vote to the polls and the Republicans didn't, the labor vote, being normal, swelled the totals for the Democrats.

The advantage the Democrats have in a labor-union political aparatus that costs many millions of dollars is plain to see. Unless the Republicans find ways of getting out their "conservative" vote, the Congress will be more and more dominated by the "pro-labor" and "pro-radical" blocs.

Author by Accident

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK — A boyish-looking ex-Army officer virtually unknown to the public is making a strong bid to become America's best-selling author.

HAL BOYLE

"I never bothered to learn to parse a sentence in school," dryly remarked John D. MacDonald. But he now earns more in a year than Edgar Allan Poe earned in a lifetime, and is creeping up fast on Erskine Caldwell and Mickey Spillane.

This one-man fiction factory became an author by accident. But he has turned out 38 books and some 500 short stories, novelettes and serials—a total of more than 15 million words—since 1945. His books have sold some 14 million copies in 10 countries.

MacDONALD, 42, who emerged from the war a lieutenant colonel, first turned to his typewriter in 1944 when he was stationed with the Office of Strategic Services in Ceylon.

"The only kind of letters you could get through censorship then made pretty dull reading," he recalled. "So, instead of a letter, I wrote my wife a short story.

"She sold it to a magazine for $25, and I decided right then that it looked like an easy way to earn a living."

But it didn't turn out to be so easy. In the four months of his terminal Army leave MacDonald wrote 800,000 words—the equivalent of 10 books — and lost 20 pounds.

"It was pretty horrible stuff," he acknowledged, "but it taught me my trade. At times I had 50 short stories in the mails at once.

"WHEN THEY came back rejected and crinkled, I used to iron the pages flat to save the trouble of retyping them and send them out again. Later, I burned them all."

He started clicking in 1946.

MacDonald, who is tanned and wears a graying crew cut, lives in Sarasota, Fla. He writes on almost any topic.

He is so prolific that once he had four books published on successive days.

His latest novel, a story of hijinks in an American art colony in Mexico, took him 20 months. It gave him a lot of trouble. But during this same period he turned out four light suspense novels.

What qualities make a writer?

"If you're not by nature an omnivorous reader, forget about being a writer," he said. "The one thing that all writers I know have in common is that they are all compulsive readers.

"Secondly, a writer has to be an iconoclast. If you believe all that you are taught, read or told, you will have too standard a mind to become a writer.

"You will lack an individual viewpoint of your own. This a writer must have."

Conflict of Theories

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON — Democrats and Republicans are on a delicate see-saw which may affect the 1960 elections as well as the national economy.

The trouble is that both sides are involved in economic theories and neither can predict with certainty the result of their actions.

President Eisenhower is dedicated to the idea of keeping down government spending in order to balance the budget, which can only be done if the government's revenue from various taxes equals or exceeds its expenses.

There is one way, of course, to be sure revenue is bigger than outgo and that is to raise taxes. No one is talking about that with any enthusiasm.

THE DEMOCRATS argue there isn't anything necessarily sacred about balancing a budget at a time when 4,700,000 people are unemployed and, they say, the government must encourage sufficient growth.

A couple of examples show the split between Democrats and Republicans on what is needed.

The Democrats on the joint congressional Economic Committee this week issued a report with which the Republican members disagreed.

But some of the Democrats didn't see eye-to-eye on everything and neither did the Republicans.

"While a balance or even a surplus in the budget is desirable in times of maximum employment," the Democratic majority report said, "neither the soundness of our money nor our potential for economic growth and stability in 1959 and thereafter necessarily depends on balancing a 77-billion-dollar federal budget.

Eisenhower proposed a 77-billion-dollar budget. He estimated that if spending could be held to that limit, and if there were some added revenue like increased gasoline taxes and postage rates, the government would wind up about 70 million dollars ahead.

The Republicans on the committee denied the Democrats had any monopoly on wanting to see the country grow and accused the Democrats of being "cloudy and unclear."

EISENHOWER HAS repeatedly contended that inflation — or less purchasing power for the dollar — is one of the penalties of unbalanced budget spending.

So much for theory. Meanwhile, Democrats and Republicans are split on specifics.

In a surprise move last week Democratic leaders in Congress called for a one-year extension of the emergency unemployment compensation program voted by Congress last year. It is due to end April 1.

Tuesday House Republican leaders lined up with the President against what they called any lengthy extension of unemployment pay. They specifically hit at extending it a year, but indicated a shorter extension might be considered.

IT ISN'T HARD to see the political implications if unemployment continues at its present high level or goes higher.

Then there's the question of national defense. Eisenhower asked for what he considered enough money for this. Democrats are challenging his position on this and are talking of voting more money for defense.

Mixed up in all this are other problems — like the amount to be spent on foreign aid, and so on — but most of them are still in the talking stage.

No matter which side has its way, the economy will be affected. Since both sides are dealing in theories, each can only hope it knows what's best.

Baby Mixup

By Truman Twill

Herewith, another account of spring - lambing at the Twillery. This one does credit to the legend of King Solomon, who once handed down what was to become a historic decision about a baby mixup.

There was confusion about whether a set of new twins that had just been born were going to be mothered by their own mother or by a family friend who had been fussing over them while awaiting the arrival of her own offspring.

The friend had pitched in, as neighbor women do, to help with the care of the new arrivals. She had been licking them dry and making them feel at home.

Her attachment to them had grown so strong that when her own lambs were born she was torn between them and her friend's offspring. To help her resolve this uncertainty about where her first duty lay, she was penned up with her lambs and the other mother and her twins penned up separately.

Uncertainty continued even in the absence of the other pair of lambs. Her own lambs were rebuffed, while she complained at the top of her voice about the twins she had been fussing over while waiting for the birth of her own twins.

It must be explained here, parenthetically, that this is the kind of mixup which full-time shepherds avert by staying on the job 24 hours a day. Every new mother and her lamb or lambs are segregated immediately.

After four hours of complaining and rebuffing, the best idea seemed to be to put both mothers and their lambs in the same pen, to see what they might work out among them. Immediately, the complaining mother accepted the lambs that belonged to her friend. And, surprisingly, the friend accepted her friend's lambs, too.

Now the trouble was with the lambs, themselves. The pair that had been born first took a dim view of being mothered by their adopted mother.

The next morning, all four were looking with favor on the same mother, to the consternation of the mother that was being left out. At the end of 24 hours, however, the left-out mother had coaxed away from its natural mother one of the two first-born lambs.

The problem now simmered down to the other first-born lamb, which was uncertain about the identity of any mother at all. It kept shopping around the sheepfold for a mother, with no success. It was butted into corners and left standing with its lips pursed.

But after 48 hours a tentative arrangement had been worked out through trial and error. Each mother had a set of twins to fuss over — except that each pair of twins had split up.

One was being mothered by its own mother, the other by a foster mother. If this is going to be the pattern, there can be a happy ending. All that matters to a lamb is acceptance at the table. Conversely the only thing that can go wrong is to find no acceptance anywhere.

It is all done by scent. A new mother licks her lambs, until they are cleaned up to her satisfaction. This takes about an hour, and after that she has made up her mind. This was what caused the confusion; the sheep that got in the first licks wasn't smart enough to know when to stop. That is why professional shepherds stay on the job 24 hours a day.

There are no dull moments for a part-time sheepman who must try to help nature set right in minutes what nature has put asunder in hours.

Miss Finch and Mr. Parish Exchange Wedding Vows

The LaRue Methodist Church was the scene of the wedding Saturday, Feb. 14, of Miss Saundra Jean Finch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton B. Finch of 120 N. State St., and Joe Edward Parish. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lenole Parish of near LaRue.

The couple repeated their vows at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon before the altar centered with a basket of white carnations. Palms and lighted candles held in branch candelabra formed a background. Officiating for the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Lewis Wilson, pastor of the church.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Alencon lace. The empire bodice had a high square neckline embroidered with pearls and sequins, and the long sleeves ended in points over the hands. The intermission length skirt was scalloped around the bottom. Holding her fingertip veil of illusion was a tiara of sequins. Her jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom, and she carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Miss Linda Kay Finch attended her sister as maid of honor, wearing a ballerina length dress of white lace over light blue taffeta. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations tied with pink satin ribbon streamers.

Serving as flower girl was Miss Janet Colleen Pearson, a cousin of the bride. She wore a pink and white nylon dress with a headband of pink rosebuds and carried a white basket filled with deep pink rose petals.

Mrs. Joe Edward Parish

William Dutton served as best man for the bridegroom and seating the guests were Arnold Hay and Larry Pinney.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Finch chose to wear a two-piece navy blue suit with pink accessories. Her corage was of pink carnations.

A reception in the church social rooms followed the ceremony and centering the bride's table was a four-tiered wedding cake topped with miniature bride and bridegroom figurines. Hostesses were Mrs. George Marshall, aunt of the bride, and Miss Mary Lou Wynn.

Mrs. Parish was graduated from LaRue High School with the class of 1958 and is employed as a secretary at the General Telephone Co. Her husband, a graduate of LaRue High School with the class of 1956, is employed at the Whirlpool Corp., Marion Division, plant. They are making their home in Marion.

U.S. Security Cited in Invoking Sweeping Oil Import Curbs

Ike Imposes Mandatory New Controls

Government Moves To Bolster Nation's Domestic Industry

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government, seeking to bolster the nation's domestic oil and coal industries, invoked sweeping mandatory curbs today on imports of foreign crude oil.

Similar cutbacks go into effect April 1 on imports of gasoline and other finished petroleum products.

President Eisenhower ordered the new import controls Tuesday, saying he acted in the interest of national security.

15 Per Cent Cut Seen

Eisenhower's proclamation, advocated for some time by domestic oil and gas producers, is expected to reduce crude oil imports by about 15 per cent east of the Rocky Mountains.

There was no immediate indication what effect the new controls might have on domestic prices.

But in a statement accompanying the proclamation, Eisenhower indicated the government will watch to see whether consumers are hurt from the cutback in foreign supplies.

Discussing the new order with reporters, Navy Capt. Matthew Carson Jr., administrator of the oil import program, said he didn't expect the restrictions to result in price increases.

Other Products Affected

In addition to crude oil, mandatory cutbacks went into effect today on unfinished petroleum products. The new curbs replace a voluntary but largely ineffective program which has been in operation since mid-1957.

Eisenhower's order was promptly acclaimed by oil and coal state members of Congress. Some questioned, however, whether the new controls would cut imports far enough.

There also was a big question what effect the cutbacks will have on U.S. relations with Canada, Venezuela and the Mideast, the principal sources of oil shipped to this country.

In a major surprise, Eisenhower included residual fuel oil on the long list of controlled products. This had been urged by the nation's depressed bituminous industry which complains that residual oil is replacing soft coal as an industrial fuel in the East.

But the residual curb came as a blow to New England congressmen. They contended it would increase costs for their area's manufacturers.

House, Senate Open Study of Hawaiian Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Statehood for Hawaii, an issue in Congress for 40 years, burst into full flame today as both Senate and House prepared to take up the bill.

With passage apparently assured, the big question was which chamber would win the race to act first to add a 50th star to the flag.

In the Senate, the Hawaii admission bill is co-sponsored by 56 senators, more than a majority.

In the House, Chairman Leo W. O'Brien (D-NY) of the Territories subcommittee predicted a margin of 100 votes for the bill.

The House Rules Committee cleared the way Tuesday for House consideration of the measure under procedure allowing six hours of general debate in addition to time spent considering amendments. Action may come Thursday. The Senate arranged to take up the measure after disposing of a draft extension bill.

REACH AGREEMENT ON BERLIN. British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan (left) and French President Charles de Gaulle are shown on the steps of the Elysee Palace in Paris after a conference (Tuesday). War

ess of debate before decision.

Eisenhower was asked if he thinks the Soviets should be given a plain warning that nuclear war might result if the Communists cut off access to West Berlin.

He replied that he doesn't know how you can free anything with nuclear weapons. He said that if there is any push in the direction of real hostilities over Berlin it is going to come from the side of the Soviets.

Eisenhower said he can't believe that anybody is going to make hostilities of this kind a reality.

In advance of a White House news conference, Eisenhower was depicted as determined to hold military spending to the 41-billion-dollar level he set in his budget for the year beginning July 1.

Ike Cites Waste

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass), a member of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, said Eisenhower had told party leaders at a White House conference Tuesday that attempts to spend more would result in waste.

"The President said that the defense program had been planned and balanced carefully and that any more money put into it would be wasted," Saltonstall said.

Leading Democrats made it clear they don't agree. They called the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Budget Director Maurice Stans before the Preparedness group which starts today an overall survey of military needs.

Symington Leads Attack

Spearheading an attack on administration defense policies, Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) told the Senate Tuesday that recent statements of Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy indicate the administration is relying on massive retaliation rather than preparing for a possible limited war over Berlin.

Symington said McElroy seemed to have taken this position "because the Army is neither modern nor mobile."

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D-Okla) said McElroy had minimized the importance of "having an adequate airlift instantly available" if the Communists close the access routes to Berlin.

Acheson Speaks Out

Dean Acheson, who served as secretary of state under former President Truman, told a news conference that Eisenhower is refusing to spend enough money on missiles. He called this a form of national suicide.

In New York Adlai E. Stevenson, twice the Democratic presidential nominee, disputed the contention of Republicans that Eisenhower knows best what the country's defense needs are.

"Military men can make as many, if not more, mistakes than non-military men in office," Stevenson said. But he joined Eisenhower in opposing any general mobilization of military forces because of the Berlin crisis.

Morse Fights Draft Renewal Of Four Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) led a last-ditch fight in the Senate today to limit extension of the peacetime draft to two years instead of the four urged by the administration.

His chances appeared slim in the face of unanimous approval by the Senate Armed Services Committee of the four-year extension and previous House passage by a top-heavy vote.

Senate leaders had planned to push the bill to a vote Tuesday night, but they postponed action until today when Morse came up with a long floor speech opposing the measure.

Pending at the time was a proposal by Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) to set up a presidential commission of six civilians and one military member. It would study the draft and other military manpower issues and recommend any needed changes to Congress by Jan. 31, 1961.

Morse told the Senate that Congress was being stampeded into "ultimatum-type legislation" because of the Berlin crisis.

Marion, Galion Ad Groups Hear Talk By New York Man

Public relations is an important "selling tool" that should be correlated closely with a company's advertising program for maximum effect.

This was the message given members of the Marion and Mansfield Sales-Ad Clubs at their annual joint meeting Wednesday night at the Hotel Talbott in Galion, by Chester Burger, vice president of Ruder & Finn, New York City public relations firm.

Formerly national newsfilm manager of CBS Television, Burger is director of planning and development for Ruder & Finn, an associate member of the Public Relations Society of America, and a member of the Merchandising Executives Club of New York.

To illustrate the added efficiency provided by a fully integrated advertising and public relations program, the speaker presented several case histories showing step-by-step how his firm isolates a company's sales problem, then plans and executes what it believes to be the most effective means of solution. He also answered questions on public relations presented by those in attendance.

Sixty-two members and guests of the two advertising clubs were present at the regional meeting. Sales-Ad guests from Marion included Howard Swink, Russell Reichardt and Jack Courtney Robert Smith of the Jay H. Maish Co. is local program chairman.

as the Premier's wisecracks or whatever he calls them. He said he (Eisenhower) could not be expected to react instantly to wisecracks.

JOB BENEFITS — The administration is waiting for the various state legislatures to convene, in order to find out what the states intend to do about extension of emergency unemployment benefits.

Eisenhower said he regards the problem of providing for the unemployed as a state responsibility, but that his mind is not closed to the possibility of adjustment. He was talking about the possibility of continued federal participation in a temporary program of benefits which was put into effect last year. That temporary program expires at the end of this month.

ECONOMY — A newsman, asking Eisenhower's comment, said some economists believe the automobile and steel industries are keeping their prices up deliberately, even though demand for their products is down, resulting in a sort of administered inflation.

The President replied that it is a matter he did not care to discuss off the cuff—that he would want to confer with his economic advisers.

SPENDING — Eisenhower said a balanced budget is a vital part of national security. He made that remark when asked whether he might be willing to spend more money for defense if more federal revenue was available.

With some show of irritation, Eisenhower went on to say he is tired of talk of having either a balanced budget or adequate national security. A balanced budget, he added, is a vital part of such security.

Suppose, Eisenhower theorized, defense spending should go up 5, 7 or 10 billion dollars. That means, he said, we would have a garrison state.

It was at that point that Eisenhower said somewhat heatedly that he doesn't see any of those calling for greater defense spending coupling it with a demand for higher taxes.

Why, he inquired, don't they have the courage to call for a tax rise.

SOVIET STRATEGY — A reporter said Eisenhower had been quoted as telling congressional leaders last week that he believes Soviet strategy is to try to induce the United States to spend itself into bankruptcy.

Eisenhower replied that he does not think that is applicable to the current Berlin situation. But as for the long run picture, the President said it isn't necessary to quote him — you can quote the Communists.

They know, he said, that the free enterprise system can't endure without being solvent.

assisted by Gilbert Johnson of the Alexandria School system and a staff of approximately 25 persons who are experts in the several phases of forestry management.

Candidates for this eighth annual event will be screened by a local committee, of which Ellwood Parrott, county extension director, is chairman. Final choices will be made on the basis of this screening.

Applications now are available in The Star's news department or from the extension office. Applicants are requested to return their applications to Mr. Parrott and not directly to the forestry association. The five young people sponsored by The Star will be accepted on a "first come, first served" basis, providing all qualifications are met.

In addition to forestry studies, the camp session will include swimming and sports events, companionship activities and other aspects of camp life.

Deadline for applications has been set as May 10, according to Mr. Parrott.

Other Brush-Moore sponsors of the Vodrey memorials include The Canton Repository and radio station WHBC in Stark County; The East Liverpool Review and The Salem News, Columbiana County; The Steubenville Herald-Star, Jefferson County; The Portsmouth Times, Scioto County; and The Ironton Tribune, Lawrence County.

Soviet

Khrushchev announced that the Western powers must get out of the German city and said that the Soviet Union intended to turn over its occupation functions in East Berlin to the East German Communist regime. The announcement immediately raised the specter of a new Berlin blockade.

As a result of diplomatic exchanges since that time, there is now conditional agreement on an early foreign ministers conference to deal with German problems.

There also is the prospect of a summit meeting later in the year, bringing together Khrushchev and President Eisenhower along with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French President Charles de Gaulle.

NEW INSTITUTE OPENS

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — An Institute for Ecumenical Studies, where representatives of various denominations confer on matters of doctrine and unity, is now operating here. Dr. T. Otto Noll Jr., editor of the New Christian Advocate and a member of the institute's board of trustees, said it is modeled on the Ecumenical Institute of the World Council of Churches at Bossey, Switzerland, "but with a distinctly American accent."

DUST BOWL INSURANCE

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Oklahoma has a built-in preventer of another dust bowl, says Laverne Fishel, president of the Oklahoma Assn. of Soil and Water Conservation Districts. The present soil and water conservation program will not allow another dust bowl, he says.

NOVEL OF CONSCIENCE

NEW YORK (AP) — More novels are being based on religious themes these days. Latest in the trend is Gabriel Fielding's "Eight Days." It deals with a new Catholic convert's struggle to keep his faith in a highly charged unreligious atmosphere.

MEMBERSHIP REPORT

CHICAGO (AP) — The number of Roman Catholics who become Methodists is almost four times greater than the number of Methodists who become Roman Catholics, Dr. Albert C. Hoover, director of Methodist statistics, claims in a recent report in the church's "Together" magazine.

Luce Nomination May Face Delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee may delay until after Easter approval of Clare Boothe Luce's nomination as ambassador to Brazil.

Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La) said that some of the members want to allow time for a "cooling-off" period before acting.

He said some members are concerned because of the publication in the Latin American edition of Time magazine of an article blamed for setting off anti-American rioting in Bolivia. Mrs. Luce's husband, Henry R. Luce, is editor-in-chief of Time.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore), chairman of the subcommittee on Latin American affairs, said he got the committee to postpone action "for the time being until the nomination can be given further consideration."

Long said he was not disposed to oppose confirmation as "Mrs. Luce is able and talented and there is no objection to her on the part of the Brazilian government."

"But I think she ought to use some of her diplomacy on her husband's magazine," he said.

Probers Explore Chicago Rackets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Labor-Management Committee set out today to explore charges of labor extortion rackets in Chicago's huge produce market.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) said the hearings will center on Joey Glimco, president of Chicago Teamsters Union Local No. 777.

Glimco was described by McClellan as a former corner newsstand dealer who rose "to a $26,000 a year executive through the medium of labor unions."

He invoked the Fifth Amendment repeatedly in a go-round with the committee last year.

Auto Accidents

One minor no-injury traffic accident was investigated Tuesday by Marion police. No accidents were reported in Marion County.

A car driven by Genevieve B. Stuber, 28, of 781 Indiana Ave., skidded on ice at Mount Vernon and Hane avenues at 7:35 a.m. and struck a telephone pole.

She said she was attempting to pass behind a left-turning car ahead of her and lost control of the car when it struck the ice. The front end of her car and the telephone pole both were damaged, police said.

Australian Site Studied For U.S. Space Trials

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — The United States may launch its first manned space satellite from the Woomera guided weapons range in Australia, official sources said today.

The officials said a party of U.S. space experts who visited Australia last month will submit a report to the U.S. government covering this and other proposals for outer space research at Woomera.

Military Personnel Get Entertainment Tickets

NEW YORK (AP) — Military personnel on leave in New York last year were given 509,342 tickets to various forms of entertainment.

The Interservice Ticket Committee, which coordinates the program, said the boxoffice value of the ducats totaled $800,000. Tickets were for stage performances, TV shows, film screenings, sports events and special shows.

Radio and Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Everything but a Station

ANN ARBOR, Mich — University of Michigan television operates something like the wingless birds of Australia. It has no television station but it has everything else — the cameras, the programs, the studios and the enthusiasm.

JOHN CROSBY

Out of this come four educational programs a week — the subjects ranging from marriage to the theory of relativity — which are carried by some 22 stations, about half of them in Michigan.

Actually, the university had a construction permit for an ultra-high-frequency station but decided against building one because the experience of another UHF station in Detroit was disastrous.

I JUST CAME from a rehearsal of a typical educational TV program called "The Life of the Fountain" which will be part of a series called "The Public Arts."

Richard Jennings, a designer of fountains who is a member of the Michigan faculty, was explaining how he designs his tricky fountains to a camera which was manned by a girl who teaches figure skating at the university and goes in for camerawork at night.

Rehearsal and shooting are always at night to get the use of faculty members who are in front of the cameras and the students and former students who are behind them.

Budgets are tiny and producers and directors pinch every nickel. During this show, for example, Mr. Jennings talks about the Fontana di Trevi in Rome.

"We would have liked some movie footage of the fountain here but it cost $5 a foot. We couldn't afford it," explained the writer-producer.

THEY MADE DO with a still picture. Educational television sorely needs a library of stock film footage that it could draw from to liven up its productions. It must buy film like everyone else and frequently it can't afford it.

While it is poor in money and stock footage, Michigan television is rich in sheer knowledge. In the nine years of its operation, some 600 faculty members have been in front of the cameras talking about such things as "Art and the Child," "Haydn to Hi Fi," "The Teenagers," "Progress of Man," "Russia: Faces of a Giant," "China: The Dragon and the Star," and "Percussion: Music With a Beat."

All these shows — and there are dozens more — are done with live cameras and kinescoped for use at leisure by its little network of 22 commercial and educational stations.

I sampled a half dozen of these kinescopes and found them long on scholarship and ingenuity, if sometimes short on production.

"PERCUSSION," for example, was a brilliant short essay on that subject which both explained it and demonstrated it. The University of Michigan percussion orchestra played music written for percussion alone.

This tiny avant garde subject you would have to hear about from educational TV because, heaven knows, commercial television is not going to touch it.

On the huge subjects — China and Russia, for example — the educational people are short on money but long on time and, again, scholarship.

The Russian series will be 10 half-hour programs which dwell variously on the Soviet people, lands, farming, resources, industry, science, imperialism and so forth.

China also will be dealt with in a 10-part series, part of which I saw. It endeavors to grapple with the whole 3,500-year sweep of Chinese history and is surprisingly outspoken on the menace of Communist China.

BESIDES MONEY, there is the great problem of popularization in educational TV.

Michigan, for example, shot a "genius" series, one of the geniuses being Einstein. But Einstein's theory of relativity simply cannot be diagrammed to make it comprehensible without also making it somewhat false.

Einstein lived in a realm of pure thought which is totally incomprehensible to the layman. Should you sacrifice truth to comprehensibility? No one quite knows.

But the great thing about educational television — here and anywhere — is the fact that it's being done at all.

"If we want an expert on rocketry or outer space, we have half a dozen right here," said Garnet R. Garrison, head of the station. The treasures of scholarship locked up in any big university can now be handed around to the populace.

It's only a beginning, but it's a great beginning.

Library Bills Paid

Routine business conducted at the regular monthly meeting of the Marion Carnegie Public Library board of trustees included approval for payment of bills totaling $1,596.18.

Miss Betty Slagle was employed as a page and permission was granted to Miss Janet Berg, librarian, to send three staff assistants to state library workshops.

Visitors to Galion Amazed at Market

GALION — Nine Yugoslavians, here to inspect the operation of two garment manufacturing plants in the city, told members of the Galion Kiwanis Club Tuesday that they were amazed at the operation of a modern, supermarket.

A visit to a market was included in the itinerary the nine men followed during their two-day stop here Monday and Tuesday.

The men also told the Kiwanis Club at its dinner meeting Tuesday noon at Hotel Talbott that they were very impressed with America. They termed the American standard of living "terrific."

Herman Eichhorn was in charge of the program at the luncheon meeting. He presented two Lexington High School juniors, Lowell Bowers and Eugene Huvler, who spoke on 4-H Club work in Morrow County.

Guests with the nine Yugoslavians and their two interpreters were Gene L. Keener, executive secretary of the Galion Chamber of Commerce, and Richard Lustig of the Ohio Overcoat Co., one of the plants inspected by the visitors.

Colleges Receive Gift

The Marion Auto Finance Co. has presented a contribution to the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges, the foundation reported today. The gift will be shared by the 29 colleges in the group, including Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio Northern Universities in this area.

Parrott Gives Suggestions on Sheep Raising

Special Care, Rations For Lambs and Ewes Urged by Extensionist

Several things should be kept in mind by the sheepman this time of the year, according to Ellwood Parrott, county extension director.

First of all, farmers are reminded that more grain should be fed to ewes in an advanced stage of pregnancy, generally ½ to 1 pound per day. If corn silage is being offered, add at least a fourth pound of good protein supplement to the ration each day. And, where corn silage is being fed, equal parts of salt and ground limestone should be made available to ewes at all times.

Feverish Condition

Many ewes, Mr. Parrott notes, will develop a feverish condition a day or so after lambing. As a result, lambs may come down with colic.

To prevent this state of affairs, reduce the amount of concentrate being fed the first few days after lambing, feeding mainly bran and oats. Plenty of fresh water will help the situation too, he adds.

If the ewe comes up with a caked udder after lambing, a quick call to the veterinarian is the best bet, Extensionist Parrott declares. Otherwise, a thorough milking and subsequent bathing with four ounces of epsom salts mixed in one-half pint of warm water will do wonders.

Lambs will begin to take an interest in grain and hay when they are two to three weeks of age. Farmers may then subject them to the following suggested ration: 2 pounds each of ground or cracked corn and rolled or crimped oats, and 1 pound each of bran and a protein supplement. After lambs are 6 weeks old, the advantage of grinding grain is of no consequence, Mr. Parrott says.

Dock, Cut Age

Every lamb should be docked at a week to 10 days of age, with castrating to be done at the same time if the animals are in good shape.

In the event that a ewe won't accept a lamb, try, sheep enthusiast Parrott says, a mixture of kerosene and vaseline or lard on the lamb's and ewe's noses. Or, pine tar may be used in a similar way.

In short, there are ways to care for sheep and lambs for profit to the sheepman. These are but a few of same, or those to which the farmer should be most familiar.

Zieg Named President Of County Sheep Group

Robert Zieg, Pleasant Township farmer, is the new president of the Marion County Sheep Improvement Association for 1959.

Named to assist him, at a recent meeting of the group were Don Foos of near Green Camp, vice president; and Allen Worgowski, also of Pleasant, re-elected secretary-treasurer. Cecil Murphy, Claridon Township farmer, is the representative to the state sheep association.

Vaughn Syrup Is Sent Coast to Coast

Morrow Countian Ranks Among 'Big' Makers

By ALLAN BOVEY
Marion Star Farm Editor

One windy morning last week, Leroy Vaughn, Morrow County farmer, climbed aboard his tractor, chugged a half mile back to one of the woodlots on his Gilead Township farm and in short order was busy with the day's business of boiling down maple sugar water into syrup.

Mr. Vaughn, whose primary business is the operation of a 320-acre dairy farm that features registered Jersey cows, was hard at work in his sugar house on a job that contributes to Morrow County's rating as the second largest maple syrup producer in Ohio. The 75 camps located within the county rank it second only to Geauga County in syrup production.

All told, 30 acres of the Vaughn place are given over to some 1,400 trees which annually produce enough sugar water to make an average of 450 gallons of syrup. As of that morning last week, Dairyman Vaughn had tapped all but 100 of his trees for a season's run that will, in all probability end by March 25.

SYRUP-MAKING has been a job on the Vaughn farm "since as long as I can remember," Leroy notes that his late father "was at it in the days when it was real work."

"And," he adds, "all the labor isn't out of the business yet."

Of the 1,400 trees furnishing water this year, all but 300 have been hung with the old-fashioned buckets. Some 300 trees have been tapped with a plastic line, which, Mr. Vaughn says, "will someday make the buckets collectors' items."

The line runs from tree to tree, ending up eventually in a centrally-located barrel. Instead of the laborious trip from tree-to-tree, he has only to drive to these barrels, pipe the water from thence to other barrels on his tractor and is ready for a trip to the sugar house. Two tanks hold the accumulated water at the sugar house.

A good day's make of syrup is about 40 gallons.

The process is simple, yet demands constant attention.

The water is piped into a conventional 5x16 flat tank that holds 40 gallons. The tank is divided in such a manner that as the water approaches the syrup stage, it moves through the sections of the tank to the outlet.

Wood furnishes heat for the boiling and the fire is laid under one end of the tank, the bottom of which is made of English tin. Why English tin "I don't really know," Mr. Vaughn says, but adds: "It seems to hold heat better and doesn't burn up." "It is used almost universally in sugar camps.

The water is ready for the "sugaring off" process when it reaches a temperature of 7 degrees above the 212-degree boiling point of water. A gauge tells exactly when this 7 degree mark has been reached.

TIME WAS when no such dial was available. Then it was a constant process of testing the progress of the boiling water in a brass test cup with a hydrometer. The gauge is one of the advancements, along with the plastic pipeline, that has made the task of syrup-making a bit easier than in a day when grandpaw collected water in a tank mounted on a sled and pulled by a team.

Leroy draws off his syrup in buckets, pouring it from thence into a stainless steel tank through two filters, one of which is felt, the other nylon. What is filtered out mainly is a heavy deposit of limestone which comes from the trees.

The consistency of the water is of prime importance, since a batch too thin will turn sour. A batch too heavy will shortly turn to sugar. Happily, if the syrup is not drawn off at the proper time, it is not wasted, since it can be re-boiled to the proper consistency.

Mr. Vaughn says he is not bothered by the heavy steam that all but obscures everything inside the sugar house during the boiling. Says he: "I can go outside without a coat and be real comfortable after having been in the house a while."

He points out that a good day for collecting sap is one in which the temperature averages 42 to 48 degrees, with the sun shining and the wind down.

THE VAUGHN syrup is shipped from "coast to coast," with standing orders filled for buyers in Arizona, Utah, Kansas and Florida, among others. "I send syrup to Michigan each year too," Leroy says, adding: "That state has plenty of trees but I am told by the folks to whom I sell that they just like the taste of Ohio syrup better."

This Morrow countian, who runs his business with the assistance of five part-time helpers, bottles his own syrup, with gallons and half gallons being the most favored containers. Based on the color (the lighter the milder, and therefore, the better), Mr. Vaughn produces syrup of either A or AA grade, selling it for $5.50 and $6 a gallon, respectively.

How about the future of the maple syrup business "Like everything else," Leroy says, "a fellow is going to have to get bigger." Mr. Vaughn notes that he can enlarge his present business by tapping 300 additional trees.

"This is," he asserts with a grin, "the craziest business you can get into. You have no way of knowing, at season's outset, whether you're going to wind up with 3 or 500 gallons. You can't guess. The weather is the determining factor, and you sure can't tell what it's going to do."

Chances are good, however, that the Vaughn trees will continue to produce top-quality sugar water for a long time to come. "I said this was my last year at it," Leroy recalls, but adds: "When the job is under way you get into the spirit of it and are glad you're in the business."

Suffice it to say that syrup business in Morrow county is "big" business, and the Vaughn operation is an integral part of the whole.

SYRUP TIME AGAIN. The annual syrup "harvest" is in full swing in Morrow County this week, where the second largest quantity of the sweet stuff is produced in Ohio.

UPPER: Leroy Vaughn, Gilead Township farmer, gets ready to pump sugar water from a barrel collecting the sap from a plastic "pipeline" into the tanks on his tractor. The water will, in turn, be pumped into tanks at the sugar house, to await the processing. Some 300 trees are served by the plastic this year, but buckets hang from another 700.

LOWER: Mr. Vaughn, a Jersey dairyman, dumps the water from a gathering bucket. He bottles over 400 gallons of Grade A and AA syrup each year and has customers from coast to coast.

E. V. Landers Twelfth Head Of Land Bank

Now president of the Federal Land Bank of Louisville, Ky., after 25 years as an employe of the loaning organization, is E. V. Landers, who took over the top job as of March 1.

Mr. Landers succeeds M. S. Kennedy Jr., who stepped down after a record 12½ years in the president's office.

The new president came to the banking system in September of 1933 from Indianapolis, Ind. Successively, he served as a clerk in the loan department, a farm loan association fieldman, and regional manager for Indiana.

As of March 1, 1955, he had been vice president in charge of the bank's loan department, during which tenure the bank's mortgage loan account more than doubled and it grew in size from seventh to fourth among the 12 Federal Land Banks in the country.

Mr. Landers will be the eighth man to hold this office in the 42-year history of its organization. He is well known to a host of Marion and area farmers, having appeared here many times at meetings involving the local NFLA group.

'Outstanding Farmer' In Crawford Honored

Wilbur Miller, 33, Crawford County's "outstanding young farmer" of 1958, was honored at a banquet in Bucyrus last week and presented a $25 savings bond for his agricultural efforts.

Miller, who operates 400 acres in Dallas Township, has, as his primary enterprise, a swine herd that numbers 100 sows and 130 head of cross-bred sheep.

The banquet was staged by the sponsoring Bucyrus Junior Chamber of Commerce and Mr. Miller is now eligible to enter the statewide competition, slated for March 15 in Dayton.

AN' THAT AIN'T HAY

Iowa is still the place where "the tall corn grows." And yields are pretty fair, too. Iowa State College checked them in 23 different locations and found harvests averaging up to 127 bushels an acre. Eighteen of the 23 field averaged more than 100 bushels. In fact, the 1958 average take was 109 bushels per acre.

Cornell fencer Raoul Sudre, a 5-7 junior, comes from Casablanca. He weighs 150 pounds.

Memberships In Two Tractor Clubs Solicited

Two clubs featuring tractor maintenance have been organized in Marion County, according to John Nicholson, county extension director in charge of 4-H.

The groups will meet each Tuesday and Thursday nights. Kenneth Collmer and Joseph Hoffman, of Claridon and Morral respectively will be advisers to the groups.

Membership, says Mr. Nicholson, is open in both clubs, with meetings to be completed by April 9.

Purpose of the program is to better acquaint area youths with the mechanics of farm tractors. The clubs are being sponsored by the Marion Implement Dealers Association.

Feature attractions for club members are a tractor contest during the county fair, with the winner to advance to state competition at the state exposition, and a tour.

Some 15 members belong to the tractor groups at present, Mr. Nicholson reports.

Angus Dinner Meeting Will Be Held Saturday

Saturday at 7 p.m. in the Ridgedale School is the time and place for the annual dinner meeting of the Marion County Angus Breeders Association.

Featured attraction on the program will be a talk by Paul Dirkson of near Kenton, who will tell of his experiences in selling cattle and visiting the Dominican Republic.

Farm Bureau Seeks Study of School Taxes

Should additional money for the operation of Ohio's schools be obtained through increased real estate taxes.

"No," is the reply of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, which suggests that property owners are already carrying their share of the tax load for operating schools.

Lyle Hinkle, organizational director of the Marion County Farm Bureau, says the Bureau is in favor of legislation which would increase the school foundation appropriations.

"The Bureau feels that having the money come from the general revenues of the state is a sounder program than requiring landowners to pay increased taxes," he said this week.

Mr. Hinkle noted that several bills now pending before the Ohio House of Representatives, would permit operating levies for schools to be voted on for indefinite periods. Moreover, it is suggested that a simple majority rather than one of 60 per cent be allowed to approve school tax levies, in either special or primary elections.

Other measures would, if passed, drop the voting percentage necessary to approve levies and bond issues, Mr. Hinkle points out.

"Our stand does not imply that Farm Bureau is not interested in the proper financing of our schools," Mr. Hinkle said. "It means, though, that we think further study should be made of the entire problem and a more equitable solution devised."

Ohio Legislature Studies Measure For Farm Safety

A law may soon be passed in the Ohio legislature making it mandatory for farmers taking machinery out on the highway to have either a flag to be used by day or flashers by night.

The House Highway Committee has recommended passage of a bill calling for red flashers.

However, farmers have objected to the flasher for day as well as night use, asserting that a flag would be more readily seen in a bright sun than a flasher. Consequently, the original proposal may be so ammended.

The safety of both the operator of the machinery, as well as the motorist, was the primary purpose of the proposed measure.

Night-moving vehicles are already required to have a rear light.

EGGED ON

The rate of egg production per laying hen on hand in 1958 was 201 eggs. That figure may be compared to 198 eggs the year previous, notes the USDA. The difference, friends, represents a passel of additional cackles from the queens of the henhouse.

Sees Marketing System as Culprit

Parrott Says Farmers Not To Blame For Consumer Costs, National Debt

Is the U.S. farmer living on easy street, his income guaranteed by federal subsidies and price props? Is he responsible for a goodly portion of the ponderous national debt?

"Nonsense," is the retort from Ellwood Parrott, county extension director.

Mr. Parrott made some observations today on data supplied by Riley S. Dougan, extension economist at Ohio State University.

Mr. Parrott, who said he is "sick and tired" of hearing the farmer blamed for a large share of the country's sad financial plight, pointed out that in 1957, for example, the U.S.'s farmers made up 12 per cent of the nation's population, produced 65 per cent of its raw materials for industry, but carried home only a paltry four per cent of the national income.

THE HOUSEWIFE goes to the market, finds meat selling sky high and thereby concludes that the farmer is the cause for the price of steak or pork chops. Meanwhile, the farmer is hard put to get enough for his livestock on the market to cover expenses and realize only a nominal profit, Mr. Parrott said.

Where is the monkey wrench in the works? The nation's marketing system, which encompasses 37 per cent of the nation's entire working force, Mr. Parrott suggested.

Are farmers really responsible for high food prices?

In 1958, Mr. Parrott noted, 60 cents of every American food dollar went to the people who bought, handled, sold, processed, transported and packaged farm products. A shade less than 40 cents went back to the men who grew the produce in the first place.

In 1946, he pointed out, the typical market basket of food cost $767. Of that the farmer got $397. A year later, the same basket went for $1,010, with the farmer realizing $400. In short, in a year's time the farmer's share went up $3, while the marketing take rose by $240.

Where did this money go? Mr. Parrott gave these figures: labor, $296, up $130; transportation, $73, up $33; other business costs, $182, up $73; and federal income taxes added $4.

WAS THE FARMER the one who made out? Obviously not, he said.

From 1952 through 1957, Mr. Parrott noted, farm prices actually decreased 20 per cent. Here are the figures: total farm income, 1952, $15.1 billion dollars; 1956, $12.1 billion; 1957, $10.8 billion.

"What," Mr. Parrott asked "would have happened had farm prices gone up at the same rate as others? In essence farmers actually subsidized the consumer in the 1952-57 period."

As for subsidies, the term is somewhat misleading as far as the farmer is concerned, Mr. Parrot noted.

Statistics show that in the last 50 years, for every $1,000 this nation has spent for subsidies, the American farmer has been the recipient of only $5. Small wonder, then, that farmers bristle when headlines play up the subsidies granted for farm-raised produce, Mr. Parrott said.

"Many items," he asserted, "are included in the agricultural budget from which the farmer receives not a sou." For example: meat inspection is a $17 million dollar business. The farmer gets not a penny from the subsidy that pays the ticket for this federal service. In 1958 some 872 million pounds of food from surplus food stocks went to school lunch programs and institutions. The government gave 1,400,000 pounds to victims of national disasters, while another 1,973,000 pounds was donated to needy persons abroad.

WHAT CAN THE farmer do to escape the enigma of being the "cause" of a bad situation?

Perhaps nothing. Mr. Dougan observed that most marketing costs, while high, are for bona fide services, and added that in his opinion there is "no great amount of inefficiency in the overall marketing system." Said he: "What we need is more understanding of the farmers' actual position."

"The farmer," Mr. Parrott said, "is a price taker and not a price setter." However, Economist Dougan pointed out that the combined efforts of all farmers is very important in determining price.

Concluded Mr. Parrott: "It behooves city folks to learn more about the farm situation in the U.S. It is difficult indeed to find another phase of our economy which is not subsidized. And, it would be equally hard to find another element that has failed to move up on the income ladder in recent years as has agriculture.

The farmer, Mr. Parrott suggested, is in a vise, and has long been taking the blame for the middle man, who, collectively, is the nation's marketing system.

Dairy Figures For February Are Published

Herds of Floyd Cluff, William Earl Wind Up High in Fat Averages

A total of 43 herds were on either Dairy Herd Improvement or owner-sampler test in January, according to a report from Ellwood Parrott, county extension director.

This figure represented 19 herds on owner-sampler, the other 24 on DHIA.

The owner-sampler units comprised 325 cows, 99 of which produced 40 or more pounds of butterfat. There were 779 cows in the DHIA herds, 272 of which pailed over the 40 pounds of fat mark.

Cluff-Earl Herds High

Topping the list of owner-sampler herds was the one owned by Floyd Cluff and Sons, whose cows gave an average of 1,342 pounds of milk and 50 pounds of butterfat per individual. Ralph Lauchler's cows averaged 975 pounds of milk and 40 pounds of fat, while those of Carl Klingel pailed 1,101 and 40 pounds of milk and butterfat respectively.

In DHIA, William Earl's herd topped the list with 1,235 pounds of milk per cow and 47 pounds of fat. Edward Mantey had the second high unit, with 1,185 and 44 the milk and fat averages per cow. And, the Ralph Yaussey and Son herd was third high with 1,144 pounds of milk and 42 pounds of fat per cow.

340-Pound Units

Richard Lawrence, George Earl and Paul Lawrence and Sons all had herds averaging 40 pounds of fat per cow. Milk production was 1,070, 1,017 and 944 pounds respectively.

The report shows that the 24 herds on test in DHIA in February represented an increase of 5 herds over the corresponding period a year ago. But, the number of herds on owner-sampler had dropped off by one. Yet the number of cows pailing an average of 40 pounds of butterfat or more was increased by 119 head, up from 252 for the month in question a year ago to 371 last month, Mr. Parrott pointed out.

Poultrymen Slate Meeting March 17 In Hardin County

Hardin County poultrymen are being invited to attend a meeting March 17 at 8 p.m. in the courthouse in Kenton to talk, in general, about the poultry business today.

Lorain Basinger, Hardin extension director, says the discussion will cover such problems as higher production, lower costs, better marketing, lower mortality, and using new and improved practices. And, those present will be asked to kick around the question of how the Hardin extension service can do more for poultrymen in the area.

Specific purpose of the gathering is to form an extension poultry committee and Dr. Clyde Marsh, extension poultryman from Ohio State University, will be on hand to help with the discussion aforementioned.

Top Bull in Angus Sale Auctioned for $8,500

A total of 25 states were represented by buyers at the annual Atlantic Angus bull sale held recently in Richmond, Va. The more than 400 prize sires offered made the event the largest auction of beef bulls ever held in the U.S.

All told, the offerings averaged $843 for a total of $347,965. The top sale involved Ankenian OB of Ankony Farm, Rhinebeck, N.Y. He went for $8,500 to Clrence Hillman, owner of the Bon-View Stock Farm, Canova, S.D.

Report Cites Progress In 1958 of Herefords

Satisfying progress in 1958 by Hereford breeders has been noted in the annual report of the Buckeye Polled Hereford Association.

Among other things, the report notes that in the National show in Louisville, Ky., 16 of 20 blue ribbons went to Buckeye members, plus all four championships and the premier exhibitor award.

At the Polled Hereford show at the International in Chicago, 16 of 19 blues were awarded Buckeye breeders, with a trio of championships and the premier exhibitor award carried off by Ohioans in the bargain.

And, 13 of 14 trophies went to association members at the National, including the new breeder's trophy.

Beef Feeders Meet

Farmers in Discussion Of Big vs. Little Farms

Time was when every farmer, by today's standards, was a "little man." But that was yesteryear. Today, there are operations that are "big" in every sense of the word, operations that, as some economists see it, have set a precedent for agriculture that will, in time, force the "little man" out of business.

How long can this "little man" hang on?

That was a question for discussion last week at a meeting of members of the Marion County Beef Feeders Association, who talked, specifically, on "How Long Can the Small Beef Feeder Survive?"

Giving his views as an already "big" farmer was Forest Loudenslager, whose 1,000 acres-plus lie primarily in Salt Rock Township. On hand to speak for the "little man" was Pleasant Township's Paul Almendinger, whose 138 acres support, in the main, a herd of Angus stock cows.

It was determined, at the outset, that the question would be answered with regard to Ohio farmers only, since western operations are already of a size that cannot be equalled in the Buckeye state.

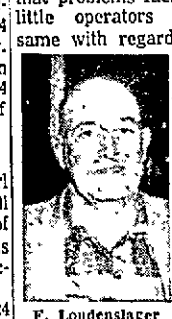
MR. LAUDENSLAGER observed that problems facing both big and little operators today are the same with regard to feeding cattle. "The amount of work that must be done, the amount of feed it takes and the time it takes to convert feed to beef are problems with which both of us wrestle," he said.



F. Loudenslager

"And," he added, "neither of us knows what the market will be when we come to the time to sell."

Surprisingly, though, Mr. Loudenslager suggested that the "little" man may "keep at the job of feeding as long or longer" than the big operator. Why? He suggested that costs might well curtail bigger operations, whereas the smaller ones, not faced with ponderous overheads, might "keep at it as long as they can get by."

"We are finding today that costs of help to manage our big operations are virtually prohibitive," this Salt Rock farmer asserted. "In time," he added, 'it may be impossible to pay these costs. Then we'll have no choice but to reduce the size of our enterprise."

Mr. Loudenslager observed, however, that the big man had more potential of "hitting a high market" than the man who could market only once or twice a year. Said he: "Multiple marketings give the farmer perhaps a 50-50 opportunity of hitting a good market. The little man sells when he must, the market to the contrary."

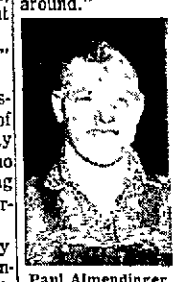
MR. ALMENDINGER was emphatic in his assurance that there "will always be a small farmer around."



Paul Almendinger

Suggesting that there is still room for the man willing to use a "manure fork, scoop shovel and he agreed that the little feeder will "never make a lot of money," but pointed out that farming on a small scale still provides a "comfortable living with not a lot invested."

Farmer Almendinger told the feeders that he could raise his calves to 500 pounds at a cost of about 15 cents a pound. Each calf, he said, required about 1½ acres of hay and grass to get the job done. From that point on he thought he could put his cattle on the market for an additional 14 cents a pound.

Jim Smoot, moderator of the discussion, wondered if farmers of the future, if, indeed, those of today, could afford to run cows on land costing anywhere from $300 to $500 an acre.

Mr. Almendinger said that in his opinion the little man who had no intention of buying more land had no need to worry about such prices and could go on as he had with a cow herd and a setup for feeding out the calves.

"YOU HAVE got to figure that the cow is always worth something on the market, and you don't want to forget that manure to be used for the land must be considered," he emphasized.

Mr. Almendinger asserted that the time may come when Marion County farmers, perhaps to a man, will have jobs other than their farming operations. A small feeding operation would, of necessity, have to suffice then, he thought.

Both farmers agreed that this is no time to get into the beef feeding business, either on a large or small scale.

In short, there is, it was felt, room for both the "big" and "small" feeder, at least for the forseeable future.

The question unanswered: What will become of the small operator if and when packers, contracting for their beef, find it an inconvenience to offer their services to the man with a relative handful of cattle?

U.S. Ranks Fifth In Eating of Meat

The U.S. may be quite a country when it comes to eating meat, but it ranks only fifth in that respect in the world, according to the International Federation of Agricultural Producers.

Argentina holds down the No. 1 spot with per capita consumption standing at 242 pounds. Australians are the next biggest meat eaters, making away with 223 pounds per person a year. Next comes New Zealand, 220; then Uruguay, 188. U.S. residents consume 159 pounds per person per year, according to the report.

Others high on the list are: Danes, 142; Canadians, 137; British, 134; French, 122; and West Germans, 107.

Stowe Started Clubs

In a story last week on the start of the 4-H movement in Marion County, The Star was informed that club work began in the area under the direction of Max Thomas, the county's first extension agent.

Not so, says S. B. Stowe, who lays claim to that honor in his own behalf. Mr. Stowe, who resides at 339 Summit St., recalls that it was he who got 4-H started back in early 1920, with the cooperation of Ohio State University, the Marion County Farm Bureau and the County Fair Board.

Corn Is Seen As Best Crop To Pay Wages

According to time spent, which crop pays the highest wages?

That's a question some Minnesota researchers wondered about so they did some checking. And, they found that corn paid back most handsomely, by a wide margin.

For example: farmers in the southern part of the Gopher state put 6.4 hours in one each acre of corn raised(reaped a harvest averaging 59 bushels per acre, which sold for $45.88 per acre, a labor return of $7.17 an hour.

For 4.5 hours given over to soybean fields, yields averaged 17.5 bushels, sold for $14.19 and returned, thereby, $3.22 an hour. For alfalfa the return was even less. Some 6.1 hours per acre were put in, with 2.6 bushels the yield, which sold for $13.68, a return of $2.23 per acre.

Want more proof of corn's superiority?

Well, farmers put in 10.5 hours per acre harvesting corn silage, got 8.3 tons to the acre which sold for $13, a return of $1.20. Barley returned 19 cents per hour of labor, while oats paid off at the rate of 34 cents per acre.

These figures might be taken into account when planning cropping programs this year. For corn, without question, is "king" in the Cornbelt, of which Ohio is a part.

Navy Ousts North Carolina From NCAA Tourney

Dartmouth Rapped By West Virginia

By The Associated Press

Unsung Navy stood out today as the team to watch — if not the team to beat — as the NCAA basketball tournament moved toward its weekend regional doubleheaders at Charlotte, N.C., Evanston, Ill., Lawrence, Kan. and San Francisco.

On a night when West Virginia won its first NCAA tournament game in five years of trying, Navy emerged with most of the attention after beating North Carolina, 76-63.

The Middies, as well balanced and finely tuned as a machine, simply dismantled Frank McGuire's rebuilt Tar Heels in the windup of a first round Eastern regional tripleheader at Madison Square Garden.

Mountaineers Win 82-68

West Viginia — an 82-68 winner over Dartmouth's Ivy League champions, and the Middies advanced to the second round with Boston University, Marquette and Louisville.

West Virginia scored its long-awaited victory — ending a jinx of four straight first round defeats, and Boston U. whipped Connecticut with a spectacular rally, 60-58, in other New York games. With St. Joseph's (Pa.), the Middle-Atlantic champ which drew a first round bye, the three winners set up camp at Charlotte Friday and Saturday to pick the Eastern region's representative for the national semifinals at Louisville, March 20.

Marquette whipped Bowling Green 89-71 and Louisville turned back Eastern Kentucky 77-63 in first round play in the Mideast regional at Lexington, Ky. They join defending NCAA champion Kentucky and Big 10 champ Michigan State in the Mideast wrapup at Evanston, Friday and Saturday.

With only one first round game remaining, New Mexico State vs. Idaho State at Las Cruces, N.M. tonight, the Friday regionals shape up this way:

Eastern at Charlotte: West Virginia (26-4) vs. St. Joseph's (Pa) (23-3) Boston U. (19-6) vs Navy (17-5).

Mid-Eastern at Evanston: Louisville (17-10) vs. Kentucky (23-2); Marquette (23-4) vs. Michigan State (18-3).

Mid-Western at Lawrence, Kan: Texas Christian (19-5) vs Cincinnati (23-3); Depaul (13-9) vs. Kansas State (24-1).

Far Western at San Francisco: St. Mary's (Calif) (18-5) vs. New Mexico State-Idaho State winner; California (21-4) vs Utah (21-5).

Finals Slated March 20-21

The four winners in Saturday's regional finals move into Louisville's Freedom Hall for the collegiate showdown March 20-21.

"Navy can go all the way in this tournament," said McGuire, who had won 20 of 24 games with a sophomore-junior team molded after his NCAA champions of two years ago were graduated. "They might run into trouble with a big team like Kansas State, but I'll bet Ben can find the answer. He usually does."

The big scorers were Jay Metzler with 20 points and flame-haired Dick Johnson with 16.

Prospect Cage Players Feted During Dinner

A near capacity crowd jammed the Prospect High School gymnasium Tuesday night for the annual athletic banquet honoring this season's cage team.

Guest speaker was the Rev. C. L. Harrison, assistant superintendent at the Boys Industrial School at Lancaster.

Fred Issler served as toastmaster, with Robert McFarlan, Prospect principal, welcoming those present. The response was made by Howard Moser, senior member of the Bulldog cage team.

Rev. Harrison suggested that the boys making up the Prospect squad were "a credit to your community." He observed that "after seeing boys behind bars for so many years it is a joy to see what kind of characters you are building."

The speaker declared that although "you lost a big one in Columbus the recollection of your accomplishments this year will produce a real after glow 30 or 40 years from now."

"We are going to need those after glows in the years to come," he said.

Rev. Harrison directed special praise at the boys who "have the courage to be reserves."

"It takes a real man to be a substitute," he declared, suggesting that while their lot was not one that drew the press notices, it was one "vital to the success of your team."

Fred McCumber, Prospect coach, introduced the members of his squad, while John Robertson, assistant mentor, ticked off a few statistics of this season's accomplishments by the Prospect crew, which finished up with a 19-4 record. Team managers and the cheerleaders were also cited.

The Rev. G. F. Peters looked back over the season past "from a spectator's point of view." Music was furnished by Prospect instrumentalists in charge of Peter Ayer, school music instructor.

Giving the invocation and benediction was the Rev. Clayton Peaslee.

Larson To Give Address Before Coaches Group

Harding High School's Gordon Larson, soon to join the football coaching staff of Ohio State University, will be a headline speaker at the Mahoning Valley Coaches Association's annual clinic in Youngstown, O., April 4.

Larson, whose Prexy gridders were undefeated last season, will share the rostrum with Chuck Klausing, Braddock, Pa., mentor whose elevens have cruised through five successive undefeated campaigns.

'Aim' Sometimes Off

Yankees' Duren Denies Faking Wildness

By ED NICHOLS
Brush-Moore Special Writer

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — This was Ryne Duren, the New York Yankee relief rifleman.

He's the guy who throws bullets, and can't see home plate, making batting against him a rather risky proposition.

Batters shake in their boots when he comes into the game, and he took advantage of their fright by saving 18 games for the Yankees last season. In the World Series he struck out 14 Milwaukee Braves in nine and a third innings.

A visitor's idea was to find out how much of Duren's weak eyesight is an act.

HE'S TALL and good looking and he was leaning against the batting cage. He denied right off that he seeks psychological effect by such tricks as, apparently accidentally, throwing over the catcher's head and hitting the backstop, or peering in as if he can't see the catcher.

"When I warm up," he said, "I don't know where the ball is going any more than anybody in the grandstand. I don't fool around with half-speed warmups. I turn the ball loose right away to see where it will go.

"Sometimes it does go over the catcher's head and hit the screen. That's all."

DUREN, 30, witty and easier to talk to than many ball players, spoke with such assurance that the inclination was to believe him.

"Say, I was even wilder in the minors," he confessed. "When I pitched for Dayton in the Ohio-Indiana League back in 1951 I walked 194 in 198 innings and struck out 238.

"One Ohio sportswriter—I can't think of his name at the moment—said in his paper, There will be a double header today and Ryne Duren will pitch the three-hour opener.

"Then Lefty O'Doul had me at Vancouver. He taught me not to aim for the center of the plate, but for a corner of the strike zone. So if I aim for the left corner, say, and the pitch sails to the right, I correct my aim like a rifle sight that's off."

HE SAID Casey Stengel had used a line during the winter banquet circuit saying he gave Duren new glasses and then, when his control was bad, gave him a dirty rag to clean them with.

"I used the gag, too," Duren related. "I would get up to speak and pull out a greasy rag and start to wipe the glasses. Killed them with that one!"

Duren, latest in the line of ace Yankee relievers, from Wilcy Moore to Joe Page, had a knee operation last winter which has mended nicely.

"NO, I HAVE no idea of wearing contact lenses. These are fine," he said, pulling off his spectacles with the bottoms as thick as milk bottles.

The visitor said that when Tommy Byrne was the "wild man" of the American League he roomed with a rookie, Bob Weisler, also minus control.

"Wonder how those guys ever get into the hotel room?" somebody asked. "Neither of them could find the keyhole."

Duren said it was a funny story and, wiping off his glasses, went to work warming up.

And he hit the strike zone with the first pitch—believe it or not.

Duren looked at the visitor and winked with a mischievous grin.

Strickland in Struggle For Regular Tribe Berth

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — George Strickland, the balding shortstop who swore off baseball last year, is behaving mighty strangely for a man who has quit the game.

He lately has been observed consorting openly with the Cleveland Indians.

Seeking Old Job

Evidence that Strickland might have fallen back into his old ways seemed to gather compelling force when he was found sitting in the Cleveland dressing room. He was wearing a Cleveland uniform and perspiring most suspiciously.

Under skillful questioning, he broke down and talked, seeming almost relieved to get the whole thing out in the open.

"You kinda miss the game after playing it 12 or 13 years," he said. "After I quit last year, I didn't pick up a bat. The only games I saw all season were on TV.

"I quit for personal reasons, which I won't go into. They seemed sound at the time, and I guess they still are.

"My decision to come back did not result from just any one thing. It was an accumulation of things. Near the end of the summer, I wrote Frank Lane (the Cleveland general manager) and asked Commissioner Frick to be reinstated. I felt that I'd kept myself in good shape and I figured I could play a few more years.

Amazed at Condition

"I thought spring training was really going to be tough this time. But I'm a little amazed at the shape I'm in already.

"I don't know what the club is thinking, but if my hitting picked up a little I think I'd have as good a shot as anyone at one of the infield positions."

Strickland, who has a lifetime major league batting average of .222, is the oldest infielder on the Cleveland roster, with the exception of 40-year-old Mickey Vernon. George was 33 in January.

Alliance Football Team Will Try Aerial Travel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Alliance High School football team may become the first in Ohio to travel to and from a scheduled game by air.

Coach Mel Knowlton said tentative plans have been made to charter a plane to take the team to Cincinnati next Oct. 16 for a game with Cincinnati Elder. If arrangements can be completed, the team plans to return to Alliance by air immediately after the game.

Veeck Buys Control of White Sox

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Veeck and his syndicate have purchased control of the Chicago White Sox but hopes for a "friendly working arrangement" with co-Vice President Charles Comiskey may not be so easy.

Veeck's group put up $2,700,000 Tuesday and bought 54 per cent of the club from Comiskey's sister, Mrs. Dorothy Rigney.

Joined by Greenberg

Having completed the purchase, Veeck said he and former major league star Hank Greenberg, a member of the eight-man syndicate, will serve temporarily as executive assistants to John Rigney, Dorothy's husband and co-vice president with Comiskey.

Comiskey, who was scheduled to leave Tampa, Fla., for Chicago Tuesday night, chuckled when the Chicago Sun Times asked him about Veeck and Greenberg coming into the organization as executive assistants.

"Who's going to pay them?" asked Chuck. "They can't be officers of the corporation unless they are voted in the board of directors. And they can't be on the payroll unless I sign the checks.

Long Delay Expected

"Anyway," he continued, "as I understand it, the only stock they actually have title to is the 1,694 shares that Dorothy owns outright. The rest still is tied up in the estate and we have appealed the entire case to the circuit court. The case won't be heard for 20 days and it could be as long as 60 days."

Comiskey was referring to his efforts to prevent Dorothy from selling her stock to Veeck. He lost his bid to stop the sale in probate court and has since appealed.

$600,000 Guaranteed

Title Fight Slated In Yankee Stadium

NEW YORK (AP)—This city's capture of the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight title fight for Yankee Stadium June 23 is just the beginning of a drive by business interests to make New York a flourishing sports center again.

"This fight means 60 million dollars in business for New York," said Bill Zeckendorf Sr., hotel chain owner and realtor. "We and the other business interests in New York were determined to get the fight.

'Just the Beginning'

"This is just the beginning. We intend to bid for major league baseball, football and other boxing shows. This is only in our self-interest. Whatever we lose to other cities means a loss to hotels here and other businesses."

Fight promoter Bill Rosensohn disclosed at a press conference Tuesday that it was "a dramatic, last minute guarantee of $600,000 by Bill Zeckendorf and his son that swung me in favor of New York City.

"I'm telling you frankly that I was all set to have the fight in Chicago until that bid was made Monday. Ragnar Benson of Chicago had guaranteed me $500,000.

Backing for Baseball Drive

The move by Zeckendorf and other industrial leaders apparently means that solid backing will be given to mayor Robert Wagner's movement to get a second major league baseball team in New York to make up for the shift of the Dodgers and Giants to California.

Zeckendorf's guarantee of $600,000 gross receipts seems a cinch to cost him nothing.

Rosensohn said he expected to gross at least a million dollars at Yankee Stadium. He also figures to clear a minimum of $300,000 from either home television or theater television. He said he already has reservations for 4,200 seats from fans in Sweden.

Bucyrus Bowlers Cling To 7th in ABC Doubles

Two Ohio teams, including one from Bucyrus, clung to their lofty positions in doubles action after Tuesday sessions of the American Bowling Congress in St. Louis.

Warren Lutz and Ken Knappenberger of Bucyrus rank seventh in the doubles action while Joe David and Tim Moran of Canton currently hold down second place, The Associated Press reported.

New Shoulder Injury Idles Yanks' Mantle

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Mickey Mantle stayed at the New York training camp today nursing a sore shoulder while the Yankees trekked to Orlando for an exhibition game with the Washington Senators.

Dr. Sidney Gaynor, club physician, ordered Mantle to take it easy for three or four days after the $80,000 centerfielder apparently aggravated his right shoulder throwing to first base during an exhibition game with the Milwaukee Braves Monday.

Mantle came out for batting practice Tuesday, and reported his shoulder was bothering him again. He injured it in the third game of the 1957 World Series when he collided with Red Schoendienst in a play at second base. The shoulder bothered him at times last year.

Gaynor sent Mickey to the hospital for X-rays, which proved negative.

"I told him he could work out, but not to throw the ball for several days," Gaynor said.

Bradley Given Top Rating in NIT Cage Play

NEW YORK (AP) — Bradley, beaten out by Cincinnati for the Missouri Valley Conference title, has been top seeded for the 12-team National Invitation Basketball Tournament opening at Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

The Braves, who finished second in the MVC although they split their two games with Cincinnati and snapped Cincy's 16-game winning streak last Saturday, will make their first start Saturday night.

Bradley, 1957 NIT champion, draws a bye as do the other three seeded teams, St. Louis, St. Bonaventure and Oklahoma City.

Butler meets Fordham and Villanova faces St. John's (NY) in the opening NIT doubleheader.

The first round will be completed Saturday afternoon with Providence facing Manhattan and Denver playing New York U.

Bradley will play the Butler-Fordham winner in the first game of a quarter-final doubleheader Saturday night with St. Bonaventure meeting the Villanova - St. John's winner in the nightcap.

The quarter-finals will be completed with Oklahoma City against the Denver-NYU winner and St. Louis facing the Providence-Manhattan winner Tuesday night, March 17.

Semifinals are set for Thursday night, March 19, and the finals and consolation game Saturday afternoon, March 21.

Wilt, The Stilt, To Lead Globetrotters

Basketball's Comedians Will Face NFL Stars Here Saturday

The world's No. 1 novelty basketball team, the Harlem Globetrotters, will battle Dante Lavelli's All-Stars Saturday night at the Coliseum.

Included in the Lavellis' lineup will be some of the most expensive gridiron talent in the National Football League. The team is composed of members of the Cleveland Browns and other NFL entries.

Leading the Globetrotters into action will be the fabulous Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, the seven-foot All-American giant from the University of Kansas. He is completing his first year on tour with the Trotters after leaving college at the end of his junior year. The 230-pound, 21-year-old star averaged 30 points a game during his college career and was a unanimous All-American choice during his last two years.

CLARENCE (CAVE) Wilson, team captain, is the oldest member of the Trotters in point of service. He has been a member of Abe Saperstein's touring squad for nine years. One of the best all-around players in the Globetrotters' history, he broke every scoring record in the books during his State College. The top defensive player on the team, he also is considered the greatest long set-shot artist in the game.

Herman Taylor, 6-1 native New Yorker, is another veteran. He is in his fifth season with the team and is one of the top dribblers in the game. Taylor, nicknamed Honey, played two years at Long Island University before joining the Trotters. In addition to his dribbling talents, Taylor owns one of the game's deadliest set shots.

Handling the bulk of the comedy routine for the Harlem team will be Meadowlark Lemon, 6-3 native of Wilmington, N. C. He has won an international reputation from his zany tactics with a basketball.

TOM SPENCER, 6-4 star from Maryland State College, is the team's second tallest man. He handles a basketball as though it were a pea in the manner of former Globetrotter greats. He is a highly versatile player and handles the bulk of the Trotters' rebounding. He is in his third year with the team.

Two 6-4 performers will round out the Trotters' lineup. Charles Harrison of Houston, Texas, and Roman Turmon of Thomaston, Ga., are the cagers. Turmon excells as a feeder and ball handler and is in his fourth year. He started at Clark College in Georgia for three years prior to going on tour. Harrison, a former star at North Carolina State College, is a prolific scorer, excelling on drivein shots. He is a topflight ball handler and stands out on defense.

Making up the 'opposition' team will be Dante Lavelli, former star for the Browns, along with Junior Wren, Chuck Noll, Preston Carpenter and El Modzelewski of the Browns, Bob Schnelker of the New York Giants, Jack Jennings of the Chicago Cardinals, Bill Reynolds of the Pittsburgh Steelers and Carl Taseff of the Baltimore Colts.

A preliminary game at 8 p.m. will pit the Texas Cowgirls against the Whirlpool basketball squad. Between-games entertainment also will be staged.

Tickets for the program are being sold in advance at Henney and Cooper and the National City Bank. Proceeds from the program will go to the Magnetic Springs Foundation.

PLAYS HERE SATURDAY. Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, Kansas' seven-foot All-American cage star, displays the ease with which he controls a pair of basketballs. Chamberlain and his Harlem Globetrotter teammates will battle Dante Lavelli's All-Stars Saturday night at the Coliseum.

Bailey Pounds Homer in 4-3 Win by Reds

By The Associated Press

Smoky Burgess now is in the Smoky City, where as catcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates he removes some of the pressure on Ed Bailey, the big Cincinnati Reds receiver.

Bailey was a disappointment last season when he hit only .250 in 112 games. He may have been somewhat off balance knowing Burgess was waiting in the wings. Burgess appeared in 99 games in 1958, and usually caught the second game of a doubleheader.

Burgess was sent to Pittsburgh in the deal that brought Frank Thomas, the Pirates' demon third baseman, to Cincinnati.

Connects With 2 On

Cincinnati and Kansas City were 0-0 after six innings Tuesday in their exhibition game at West Palm Beach, Fla., when Bailey walloped a 3-run homer off Ralph Terry that gave the Reds a 4-3 victory over the Athletics. Whitey Herzog hit a 3-run homer for the A's in the last half of the seventh.

The Chicago Cubs registered their first Cactus League victory in three games by defeating the Cleveland Indians 9-3 at Mesa, Ariz. the Cubs scored five runs in the first inning off Cal McLish, the Indians' 16-game winner. Tony Taylor, Cubs second sacker, hit 3-for-3.

Milwaukee and the New York Yankees met at St. Petersburg, Fla., and the Braves made it two in a row over the world champions, winning 5-2. Whitey Ford held the Braves to one hit in three innings, but Milwaukee got three runs off Tom Sturdivant in the fifth. Hank Aaron homered for the Braves in the eighth. Andy Carey's two-run homer in the seventh saved the Yankees from a shutout.

Red Sox Crush Giants

The Boston Red Sox won their third straight, thumping the San Francisco Giants 8-2 at Phoenix, Ariz. Frank Malzone, Boston third baseman, drove in four runs with two hits.

At Lakeland, Fla., the Detroit Tigers defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2 when Johnny Groth's sacrifice fly scored Ossie Alverez in the seventh inning.

In another close one at Tampa, Fla., the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Chicago White Sox 3-2.

Two rookies, Jim McDaniel and Rocky Nelson, singled in the seventh inning and the Pittsburgh Pirates tallied three runs to down the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1.

Home runs by Julio Becquer, Reno Bertoia and J. W. Porter powered the Washington Senators to a 6-5 night victory over Baltimore at Miami. The Orioles almost pulled the game out with three runs in the seventh and two in the ninth.

Canadians, Russia Seek Hockey Title

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Canada and Russia clash tonight in the World Amateur Ice Hockey Tournament with the victor expected to wear the title crown at the end of the week-long competition.

The co-favorites are tied for second place along with the United States, each with two points, Czechoslovakia, idle tonight, holds first place with a 2-0 record, after beating Finland 8-2 Tuesday.

Both Canada and Russia, which already has defeated the United States in the championship phase of the round-robin, have 1-0 records. The U.S. team has compiled a 1-1 mark, winning its first game Tuesday by overwhelming Sweden 7-1.

Cuban Rookie Wants Redleg Pitching Berth

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Cincinnati Redleg brass are pinning their hopes on a gabby, skinny Cuban to provide sorely-needed relief pitching this season.

He is Orlando Pena, an industrious 22-year-old bachelor who has a lot to say—in Spanish and in English.

But his hurling last season with the Reds' Havana farm team speaks best for him. He compiled an 11-10 record and a 3.06 earned-run mark before the Reds brought him up to the majors Aug. 22.

The righthander pitched 15 innings for the Reds, fanned 11 men and allowed 10 hits.

After that, he moved into the Cuban winter league where he stacked up a 15-4 mark. The first day he arrived in spring training camp, Pena took part in limbering up exercises, then told Manager Mayo Smith in perfect english: "I'm ready."

The Reds stop here today for an exhibition game against the Los Angeles Dodgers. Bob Purkey, Tom Acker and Ted Wieand pitch for Cincinnati, opposing Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax.

Local Observance Of Wildlife Week Planned in County

Plans for the local observance of National Wildlife Week have been announced by Robert Gebby, president of the Marion Fish and Game Association.

Sportsmen's or conservation clubs, civic organizations and youth groups will take part in the March 15-21 observance, which this year stresses conservation in the schools.

Walt Disney, producer of the famed "True Life Adventure" nature movie series, is serving as national honorary chairman for Wildlife Week. Charles Dambach of Ohio State University is state chairman.

Mr. Gebby said the primary objective of the Wildlife Week campaign in Marion this year is to acquaint people, including educators and students, with the tremendous importance of adopting and applying the concepts of conservation to everyday lives.

National Wildlife Week has been sponsored annually since 1938 by the National Wildlife Federation and its state affiliates, including the League of Ohio Sportsmen.

More Than 1,000 Taking Adult Courses Here

CLASSES DRAW PEAK ATTENDANCE. The Adult Education Program each year continues to grow, not only in enrollment, but in course offerings as well. This year the 10th annual program of night courses has drawn more than 1,000 adults, Emil J. Lisak, director, reports. The program is sponsored by the Marion City Board of Education as a community service and is now in the ninth week of the 10-week period.

Whirlpool Begins Presenting Case at Hearing of NLRB

The Marion Division of the Whirlpool Corp. began presenting witnesses at a National Labor Relations Board hearing this morning after the general counsel of the NLRB rested its case Tuesday afternoon.

The NLRB hearing, now in its sixth day, is considering an unfair labor practice charge filed against Whirlpool by the United Auto Workers. The charge alleges discrimination in the discharge of an employe and is amended to include an allegation an employe council at the plant is a company dominated labor organization.

Five witnesses testified Tuesday. Two of them were called by the NLRB and three by the union. Called were Carl Adkins, the employe the company discharged, appearing for the second time, and James Bender, a member of the employe council.

It is the company's position that the council is not a labor organization within the meaning of the National Labor Relations Act.

The UAW, participating in prosecution of the charge, called James Hornbeck, an hourly employe, J. R. Corwin, tool engineer at the plant, and Charles A. Litell, who once worked for the company.

Presentation of testimony is expected to be completed at the end of this week or early next week.

Methodist Men Hear Columbus Judge Speak

More than 70 members and guests attended the dinner meeting of Methodist Men Tuesday night at Epworth Church here when Judge Alan E. Schwarzwalder of the Columbus Municipal Court was the speaker. His topic was, "A Judge Looks at Our Courts."

Describing the various types of cases and defendants coming before him, he commented that the large majority of traffic hearings are on drunken driving. He appears on the Monday night television show from Columbus, "Traffic Court." It is a principal with him that every man has a fair chance to speak in his own behalf, he said. A question and answer period followed the talk.

Other guests were Judge Edward J. Ruzzo of the Marion County Probate Court, John Russell, William D. McGee Jr. of Columbus and Dan O. Hubbard of Marion who was the accompanist for group singing. John Waddell was song leader, invocation was by W. D. McGee and benediction by Herman Knodt. Bernard Lyon presided.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: What is your opinion of a husband who teases and pesters his wife until she cries and leaves the room, then takes the chair she was sitting in; which is right in front of the TV set?

I used to wonder why he picked on me every time there was a real good show to watch. I finally caught on after about eight times. What can I do about a man who is so sneaky and childish?—GUSSIE.

Dear Gussie: Rearrange the furniture so the davenport faces the TV set.

Ivy in Their Hair

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is being written by a brother and sister. I am 17 and a high school senior. Hal is 16 and a junior. Our parents are making nervous wrecks out of us. Why? Because Mother went to Radcliffe and Dad went to Princeton. They've made us feel as if we will be dragging the family name in the mud if we don't get into these schools.

You probably know how tough it is to crack a top-notch college or university these days. Many of our friends who were graduated last spring didn't make either their first or second choices. Our folks don't understand this.

Hal is a brilliant student and an all-around athlete. He could probably make Princeton with no trouble. But he doesn't want Princeton. He'd prefer a smaller school.

I'm only a fair student and know I can't make Radcliffe. Mother keeps nagging me to "work harder." I'm working as hard as I can but my average is a low B and this isn't good enough.

Every night at dinner Dad yaks about Princeton and Mom harps on Radcliffe. We hate to go to the table. What advice can you give us—or them?SWIMMING HEADS.

Dear Swimming Heads: Your parents want what they feel is best for you but they're out in left field on this one.

Their enthusiasm for Radcliffe and Princeton is a combination of snob - appeal and the desire to relive their youth through their children. Radcliffe and Princeton are excellent schools but other choices may be better for you and your brother.

It is not true that ALL top-notch colleges and universities are jam - packed and tough to crack. Many fine schools are looking for students. The trouble is that too many of our high school graduates (or their parents) want the Ivy League—male and female.

Ask your parents to make an appointment with your college program adviser. The adviser will be able to explain the situation to your folks. Let's hope they will then accept your academic limitations and respect your brother's preference.

Dear Ann: I enjoyed your reply to the mama who was bitterly disappointed because her gorgeous daughter married a homely man. I have a few words to say on this subject.

By all standards I was considered a beautiful girl. The man I married is "plain looking" at best. But he has a lovely personality and magnificent character. It stands out in my mind that the handsome jerks in my life gave me nothing but trouble. They were out to see what they could get and never cared who got hurt.

Beauty is fine but often it attracts the wrong types. My homely guy never thought he had a chance because the handsome fellows were always flocking around. Thank heaven I was smart enough to recognize this diamond in the rough.

Many of the pretty boys I knew are now fat and bald and nothing to look at. People who marry for rolls, looks get robbed — and it serves them right.—L.P.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Repository, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Records Cleared

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Hamilton County Election Board says its annual overhaul of voting records has reduced the number of registered voters by nearly 13 per cent. A spokesman said Tuesday that 51,252 voters were disqualified from voting until they renew registration. This leaves 346,637 qualified voters on the rolls.

Commands Changed In Ohio's Air Guard

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Several command changes in the Ohio Air National Guard were announced today.

Col. Dale E. Shafer Jr. of Germantown, new commander of the Air Guard's 121st Tactical Fighter Wing, said Col. Frederick P. Wenger of Worthington will become wing operations officer. Replacing Wenger as executive officer will be Col. James E. Kidd of Lancaster.

Lt. Col. Albert B. Line, commander of the 164th Tactical Fighter Squadron at Mansfield, becomes fighter group commander, and Maj. Andrew C. Lacy of Nova (Ashland County) takes command of the 164th.

DiSalle Would Limit Service Sales Taxes to Hotels, Motels

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle has disowned an administration bill in the Legislature to levy a sales tax on amusements, sports events, laundries, dry cleaning establishments and other companies that deal in services rather than products.

He told a news conference Tuesday he plans to ask the Legislature to strike out any such levies from the bill.

He said he never intended that the bill include those services. The bill would have been rewritten, he added, but there was not enough time before the bill introduction deadline last Thursday.

DiSalle wants the sales tax to apply only to these services: Hotel and motel rooms, and hotel and motel parking—if a charge is made for the latter.

The governor said he does not believe there would be an inequity arising from his suggestion that the state allow counties to collect and distribute utility excise taxes. The state now collects the tax and turns it over to counties for poor relief purposes.

DiSalle said he believes local collection would be equitable "because the bulk of the money would go to counties where the need exists."

He added that collections might be lower if it were left up to counties, explaining that they would levy the tax only if they need it. "And some of them don't need as much as they're getting now," he said.

Former Judge Dies

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP)—Former Municipal Judge Frank E. Grosshans died of a heart attack on an East Liverpool street Tuesday. Grosshans, 91, was an attorney for 66 years and served 16 years as municipal judge, retiring in 1950.

Scotland Yard Seeking Stolen Gems Appraised at $420,000

LONDON (AP) — Flying squads from Scotland Yard raided the homes of two London gang leaders early today but no trace was found of Lady Norah Docker's missing $420,000 worth of jewels.

The two underworld figures had been spotted in Southampton Monday night a few hours before the jewels were stolen in the port city from the Dockers' parked Rolls Royce.

Homes of suspected fences also were raided. The detectives prodded furniture, poked around the floorboards, tapped the walls, peered up chimneys and dipped into water tanks. There was no sign of the missing baubles.

A London insurance firm offered a $42,000 reward.

Lady Norah and her millionaire third husband, Sir Bernard Docker, left the two boxes of jewels and his briefcase in their silver and blue Rolls on a Southampton street while they had dinner Monday night. When they returned the jewel boxes and the briefcase was gone. The car was still locked the windows intact and there were no fingerprints but the Dockers'.

Detectives were convinced the robbery was the work of a gang of specialists that had tailed the couple for months.

Strike Talks Continue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Another round of negotiations gets under way today in the Columbus newspaper strike. A federal mediator reported a "slight degree of progress" after Tuesday's talks.

The Ohio State Journal, the Dispatch and the Citizen, went into the 13th day without publication, due to a strike by Columbus Web Pressmen's Union, Local 15. The union is seeking higher wages and more overtime pay for Saturday night work.

Flying Bank Robber Reported Seen Near Airport in Indiana

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Frank L. Sprenz, 29-year-old flying bank robber, was reported seen at Aretz Flying Service Airport East of Lafayette Tuesday night.

Edward J. Powers, FBI agent in charge at Indianapolis, said a man matching the description of Sprenz inquired about renting a plane. Airfield employes did not become suspicious until later when they saw pictures of Sprenz and a description circulated by the FBI to airports.

Investigators said the technique of "casing" an airport and later stealing a plane to make a getaway was used in a $25,955 robbery March 2 at the First National Bank and Trust Co. branch at Hamilton, Ohio.

The getaway in that robbery included a flight in a stolen plane from Hamilton to Coshocton, Ohio. Since then Sprenz has been the object of an intensive search in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania.

Sprenz, who is on the FBI's list of 10 most wanted men, escaped with four other men from jail at Akron, Ohio, April 16.

Torre Case Adds Impetus

Drive To Protect News Sources Gains Support

By KENNETH WHITING
Associated Press Staff Writer

"I think reporters for newspapers, radio and television should have the same safeguarded relationship with news sources as lawyers have with clients and doctors with patients," an Illinois lawmaker said before introducing a bill in the state legislature.

The proposed law, by Rep. Michael Zlatnik (D-Chicago) is part of a widespread move to extend protection to reporters who refuse to name the source of the news they gather.

Action Widespread

Proposed new laws or amendments have been introduced in the U.S. House of Representatives and at least 10 state Legislatures in the wake of the widely publicized Marie Torre case.

Miss Torre, a radio-TV columnist for the New York Herald Tribune, served a 10-day jail sentence for contempt of court. She declined to name the source of comment about entertainer Judy Garland she used in a story. The publicity spurred attempts to detail just how far a newsman may go in protecting his sources.

Four separate bills are pending in New York state, scene of Miss Torre's trial and conviction.

They provide that (1) no newspaper publisher, editor or reporter could be compelled to disclose the source of information committed confidentially; (2) persons who gather, publish, broadcast or televise news could not be punished for criminal contempt for refusal to disclose news sources; (3) newspaper, radio and television personnel could not be compelled to testify or disclose sources at any proceedings of any court or government agency and (4) news reporters would have immunity from disclosing sources only if they had pledged secrecy to the source and the information could not have been obtained without such a pledge.

Laws Exist in 12 States

Twelve states already have laws which are generally similar and two of them, Pennsylvania and Ohio, are considering revisions to extend such protection to radio and TV reporters.

The first state to provide legal protection for newsmen was Maryland in 1896. Similar statutes are in effect in Alabama, Arkansas, Arizona, California, Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Montana, New Jersey, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Just last week a trial judge reaffirmed a reporter's right, under the California law, to refuse to reveal the source of a newspaper story.

Fred Sorri, reporter for the Peninsula Herald of Monterey, invoked this section of the state's civil code in declining to answer a question at a perjury trial.

The California Supreme Court previously upheld the constitutionality of the law.

Besides Illinois and New York, new measures have been dropped into legislative hoppers in Iowa, Oregon, Rhode Island, Texas, Vermont and Utah.

Exterminator won the Pimlico Cup three straight years with three different riders — Clarence Kummer, Larry Ensor and Albert Johnson.

Sohio Earnings Up

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) reports 1958 earnings up slightly from 1957 despite a decline in net sales and operating revenue.

The 1958 net earnings were $24,044,463, or $4.82 a share, compared with $23,920,335, or $4.79 a share in 1957, Sohio reported Tuesday.

Net sales and revenue in 1958 were $358,000,924, compared with the all-time high of $377,486,875 recorded by Sohio in 1957.

Veteran Dance Caller Notes Change in Dress

PATERSON, N.J. (AP) — Mrs. Carrie (Ma) Heater, 88, has been calling square dances since the 1880s when she was just a child.

She's noticed some changes in the dancers. Says Mrs. Heater:

"The women around here have got to wearing britches, like a man's, no stockings, and old houseslippers. The slippers fall off their feet but they keep dancing just the same."

OSLO, Norway (AP)—The Norwegian government today pledged to ban export of munitions to areas where there is war or threat of war.

Prime Minister Einar Gerhardsen gape Parliament this pledge in reply to criticism of the government for accepting an order during Cuba's civil war. The pledge was made to avert a resolution of no confidence filed by all opposition parties.

6th Grade Student Is Injured in Fall

A sixth grade student at Grand Prairie School was hospitalized Tuesday afternoon for observation after she fell on a stairway and apparently suffered back injuries, Russell Martin, school principal, reported today.

The girl, Claudia Brady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Brady of near Marion, was listed in "fairly good" condition by General Hospital authorities this morning.

She was to undergo X-rays today to ascertain the nature of the back injury.

Mr. Martin said the girl slipped on a small stairway leading from the stage to the gymnasium floor in the school auditorium during a recess period about 2 p.m.

Claudia was brought to the hospital in a Hughes-Hyll ambulance.

New York Central Seeks New Trial Of Damage Action

The New York Central Railway Co. of Marion filed a motion for a new trial in Common Pleas Court Tuesday afternoon in an effort to set aside a $20,000 judgment awarded last month to a Caledonia man.

The plaintiff, Lester T. Gleespen, won the verdict in his $60,000 damage suit against the railroad for injuries he allegedly suffered when his car was struck by a switch engine at an alley crossing between Oak and Prospect streets Feb. 24, 1956.

Robert O. Stout and Ralph E. Carhart, attorneys for the railroad, cited 10 alleged errors and irregularities in the jury hearing which ended Feb. 19.

The attorneys charge that the railroad was prevented from having a fair trial and that judgment against the defendant "was excessive and not sustained by the evidence as presented at the trial, and which appears from the record to have been given under the influence of passion or prejudice."

The defense attorneys also allege that two of the jurors, Mrs. Madeline Sharp of near New Bloomington and Mrs. Nellie F. Weimer of 348 Bradford St., "were not properly qualified electors" at the time of the trial. An affidavit to that effect from the Marion County Board of Elections was attached to the motion.

Mr. Gleespen was represented in the case by Kenneth M. Petri of Galion and the local law firm of Moore, Myers and Parsell.

Six Students To Attend World Affairs Institute

Six city and county students will leave here Friday morning to attend the two-day World Affairs Institute in Cincinnati, Arthur L. Martin, chairman of the institute committee for the Marion Rotary Club, reported today.

Delegates participating in the Friday and Saturday sessions under local Rotary Club sponsorship are Kenneth Klatt and Stuart Shank of Harding High School, Steve Gibb of Marion Catholic High School, Anna Kay Gray of Prospect, Ellen Terry of Pleasant and Leon McCorkle Jr. of Waldo, all seniors.

They will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Kuhn and Mr. and Mrs. Martin. Mr. Kuhn is general chairman of the international service committees of the Marion Rotary Club.

Morrow County's two delegates, Wayne Schwartz and David Jenkins, both of Cardington High School, will join the local group in traveling to Cincinnati for the institute.

Several hundred student delegates from Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia will attend the conference through sponsorship of Rotary clubs.

The program theme is "Africa South of the Sahara—New Frontier." Speaking at the banquet which will open the program Friday night will be Stewart H. Van Dyke, regional director of the Office of African and European Operations of the Institute of International Cooperation Administration.

On Saturday morning students will hear a panel composed of educators, government officials and businessmen discuss Africa and its significance as a new frontier.

A noon luncheon at the Sheraton-Gibson Hotel, institute headquarters, will close the sessions. The featured speaker will be Frederick S. Arkhurst, first secretary of the delegation of Gahanna to the United Nations.

Students will return home late Saturday. While in Cincinnati they will be lodged at the Sheraton-Gibson.

Liquor Price In Ohio To Go Up 10 Per Cent

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Department of Liquor Control has arrived at a new formula, setting retail prices for liquor, to become effective April 1. It will amount to about a 10 per cent increase, officials said.

Agreement on the cost increase, under study since Gov. Michael V. DiSalle called for 20 million more in revenue from the department, was reached Tuesday night after a conference between liquor director Richard C. Crouch and the Board of Liquor Control.

The increase may not amount to as much as 10 per cent on some brands due to application of the new formula. Previously, the department figured its 30 per cent markup in the basic cost after taking out federal, state and department gallonage taxes. Under the new formula, the department will base its retail price on the total cost to the department, including the gallonage taxes—then taking a 28 per cent markup.

Under the new formula, however, the department's own 50-cent gallonage charge will be eliminated. Federal taxes and the $1 state gallonage tax are mandatory by statute.

In addition to the agreement on the price increase, the director and the board agreed to allow the department to charge $5 for a special order, regardless of the amount, instead of a $1.50 a case as in the past. A special order is that given the department for liquors not carried as regular items in the state stores.

Cancer Group Plans Activity

Plans for a public education program to be held the last two weeks in April to acquaint the public with the work of the American and local cancer societies were discussed at a meeting of the Marion County Cancer Society Tuesday night. It was held in the public health wing at Marion General Hospital.

Speaker was Dr. James A. McGlew, who told of his study of cancer and his attendance at clinics during the five days he spent at the University of Illinois in Chicago. His trip was sponsored by the local society in the interest of the work of the Marion County Cancer Clinic.

Mrs. William Kimball, executive secretary of the society, reported on the work of the local group. Films have been shown to many clubs, other organizations and junior high school groups in the last two months. Also during that period, she said, more than 1,000 pieces of literature were distributed from the local office. She also told of a recent public information meeting in Columbus to acquaint the public with the work of the Cancer Society.

Mrs. Josephine Kyle of the clinic staff gave a report on the clinic work and said that 10 local doctors now are contributing their time to the clinic.

Jackson Taft, president, presided for the meeting.

Following the business session, two films were shown. They were entitled "Time and Two Women" and "To Save These Lives."

Galion Club Plans Easter Egg Search

GALION — Plans for Galion's third annual Easter egg hunt were made when the 20-30 Club held its dinner meeting Tuesday night at Hotel Talbott.

The club members will color and hide some 3,000 eggs at Heise Park here Easter Sunday morning. Several prizes will be awarded to the children in the competition. Roger Enright will be the chairman of the egg hunt.

To help defray the expenses of the club a shoe shine stand will be set up on the Public Square here Saturday, March 28. Michael Ventrone will be in charge of the shines.

Two April events also were planned by the club. The first will be April 14 when the 20-30 Club is host to the inter-service club meeting at the Galion Country Club. Ronald Myers heads the committee in charge of preparations.

The second event will be a concert at Galion Senior High School April 17 by Dave Rubinoff and his violin. David Cooper is chairman for the concert.

Ohio Coal Mining Operations Explained to Marion Rotary

The United States has ample coal resources for the next 1,000 years, E. W. Anderson of the Hanna Coal Co. told the Marion Rotary Club Tuesday noon at Hotel Harding.

Mr. Anderson, who resides in Cleveland and is sales manager of the coal firm, described in detail the Hanna operations in southeast Ohio.

Hanna started its stripping in that area in 1940 and originally planted trees on the stripped land as a conservation measure, he said.

Since 1949 it has been state law that the affected land must be regraded and since 1950 Hanna has been concentrating on developing pasture land," he said.

Of 11,000 acres reclaimed since 1950, more than 7,000 acres have been covered with grass, he said. Hanna has its own herd of cattle on the pasture, running 850 head of Hereford steers after starting with 35, he revelaed.

Mr. Anderson's talk followed the showing of a sound film on the first Mountaineer shovel, constructed for the Hanna Coal Co. in 1955 by the Marion Power Shovel Co.

The film, which shows the erection of the shovel at the Hanna fields near Cadiz, was narrated for the club by Adrien F. Busick Jr., executive vice president and general manager of the Marion Power Shovel Co.

Mr. Anderson and Mr. Busick were introduced by Rex Kilbourn, program chairman for March.

Guests were introduced by William Isaly.

Visiting Rotarians were Edward G. Potter of Lima and M. B. Richey of Cardington.

Other guests were E. G. Strockman of Cleveland and William LeMasters, Richard Hyll and George E. Turner of Marion.

Session on Kennedy Bill Is Blocked by Dirksen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, today blocked a meeting of the Labor Committee to consider the Kennedy labor bill. His move dimmed chances of early action on the measure.

Under the rules it is necessary to get unanimous consent for any committee meeting while the Senate is meeting. The Democratic leadership asked for that consent but Dirksen objected.

Reality Sought By Greeks in Artistic Work

ATHENS (AP) — You find it there in the works of some Greek painters and sculptors, a special stamp or "family likeness" that sets them apart from the works of other European artists.

A common technique, perhaps?

"No," says painter Sannis Tsarouchis. "It is the outcome of race, religion and environment. It is the expression of our reality—Greek reality. All Greek poets, artists and philosophers, from Homer down to the present, have striven to express that reality."

But the striving was not continuous from the time of Homer. There was a 500-year break, coinciding with Greece's domination by the Turks after the fall of Byzantium.

As an independent nation, Greece was reborn in the 1820s. But it took another century for its artistic soul to find independence.

Inspiration Sought

During the 100 years that followed the nation's rebirth, Greek artists sought inspiration in Munich and Paris art trends. They embraced Western styles because Eastern conceptions of art were associated in their minds with the expelled conquerors.

Shortly after the end of World War I, there began to take shape an artistic movement that preached the return to tradition. A handful of artists, headed by painter Parthenis and architect Pikionis, made up the movement.

They rejected Western or "modern" art as uncongenial to their own "reality." Instead they turned to Greek popular imagery and crafts, to Byzantine paintings and mosaics, even to Eastern and Asiatic art. From these sources, and more particularly from the Byzantine, they sought to draw ways of expression that would be intrinsically theirs and no longer "borrowed from alien sources."

Thus was born what the Greeks call "neo-Hellenic realism," a trend that counts in its swelling ranks some of the most talented artists in the land: Tsarouchis, Moralis, Pappas, Kapralos.

The extremism of the early days of the movement has been toned down. Its followers have acknowledged the historical fact that Greece is, and has been, the meeting point of East and West and Greek reality must contain a synthesis of both.

The movement is inextricably entwined with the nation's only art institution, the Athens School of Fine Arts. Some of the most talented exponents of the movement either were graduated from, or now serve on the faculty of, the school.

Oldest Institution

Founded in 1837, it is the country's oldest education institution, and also the cheapest. The yearly tuition fee is no higher than $13.33.

Entrance examinations are stiff, however. An average of only one in every 10 candidates passes them. Of the 200 students now attending the school, nearly 45 per cent are girls. Most of the girls are Athenian and from well-to-do families. The opposite is true of the boys.

Katie Spenza, who studies sculpture, is the 22-year-old daughter of a rich manufacturer. Working close by is another sculpture student, 25-year-old Yannis Parmakelis, who is the son of a Cretan laborer and attends the school on a state scholarship.

Spain ceded the Philippines to the United States on Dec. 19, 1898.

To Your Good Health

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Urticaria Frequently Caused by Allergy

Dear Dr. Molner: My case has been diagnosed as urticaria. I would appreciate information as to treatment. —E.G."

Dr. Molner

At first glance this may not seem to be of interest to very many readers. But wait and see!

Urticaria is a term that has held over from earlier days: It used to be the term for a nettle rash, "urtica" being the name for the stinging nettle.

Now, however, urticaria has become a useful term for any rash resembling that caused by the stinging nettle. To our discomfort, we know that this sort of rash can affect people who haven't been closer to the country recently than the end of a subway or bus line.

In short, while urticaria may at times result from the stinging nettle, it is far more commonly caused by something else — allergy of food, drugs, serums, pollen extracts or other things that are eaten, breathed, touched or injected.

If ever we stop the "common cold," (which is really a vast number of diseases) from being the world's commonest affliction, we then will have to turn to allergy as the next most widespread.

AND, ACTUALLY, allergy may well be commoner than the cold already; I dare say more people have colds, but there are many more allergy cases which go on and on instead of providing a week's misery and then vanishing.

So, to answer the specific question today:

Trying to find, and avoid, the cause of urticaria is the first rule of treating.

Other than that, treatment depends on the severity of the case. Sometimes one will quiet down without any treatment. This most likely means that whatever causes it is something that the person comes in contact with rather rarely.

Many a mild case responds readily to an antihistamine lotion. More severe cases may, instead, be controlled by antihistamines taken by mouth.

Very severe cases may require adrenalin or steriod drugs (of the ACTH — cortisone family) administered by injection.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a son-in-law who often has a desire to eat raw beef. In my younger days I often heard this could be harmful and possibly cause leprosy, but he insists that ground beef without pork and fat is not harmful. —M."

I'm in favor of cooking all meat — but I'll agree with your son-in-law that the big danger is in pork that isn't cooked thoroughly. It sometimes causes trichinosis. This disease does not involve beef cattle. Raw beef CAN be the source of tapeworm. As to raw beef causing leprosy: NO.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I come from another country. A question that puzzles me is: Why do Americans drink everything scalding hot? Isn't it harmful? I always have to let my coffee, tea or soup sit for a minute or two, or I would burn the dickens out of my mouth. I can't for the life of me understand how they do it. — Mrs. M.K."

Search me. I know the British like beer warm, and their highballs without ice. I also have good friends who have been fretting about the temperature of their coffee for years. The wife keeps saying, "Drink your coffee before it gets cold," and the husband, whose ancestors also came from a foreign country (but in 1648, just a few boats later than the Pilgrims) has been for 20 years retorting, "I'm just waiting for it to get cool enough to drink." Any temperature that suits you is the right one.

Beset by blinding, painful headaches? If so, write me in care of this newspaper for a copy of my booklet, "How To Tame Headaches," enclosing a large, self-addressed stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Kleinerman New Leader of Jewish Appeal in County

Paul A. Kleinerman, general manager of the American Homecraft Co. of Marion, has been elected Marion County chairman of the 1959 United Jewish Appeal drive, it was announced today by Sol Luckman of Cincinnati, United Jewish Appeal national chairman.

In accepting the appointment, Mr. Kleinerman declared:

"The news of the lifting of the barriers for the thousands of Jews in Eastern European countries, and their emigration to Israel is most heartening as that area contains the largest number of European Jews outside of the Soviet Union.

"However, while all Israel welcomes them with open arms, we must readily realize rapid entry poses grave financial problems which must be met by immediate and increased assistance to the United Jewish Appeal."

Now in its 21st year, United Jewish Appeal has set a goal of $100 million this year. Locally the goal has been increased 25 per cent to help attain the national goal.

P. Oborn, Jr., and Paul Kraner, Executors of the Estate of Philip H. Haas, deceased, on the 6th day of February, 1959, filed their petition in the Probate Court within and for the County of Marion and State of Ohio, alleging that the provisions of said decedent's will charged the real estate of which he died seized, with the payment of legacies; that decedent died seized, in fee simple, of the following described real estate, to wit:

TRACT I. Situated in the Township of Richland in the County of Marion and in the State of Ohio and being the South East Quarter (¼) of the North West Quarter (¼) of the South East Quarter (¼) of Section Thirteen (13) Township six (6) South, Range Sixteen East.

Also, the East One Half (½) of the South West Quarter (¼) of the North West Quarter (¼) of the South East Quarter (¼) of said Section Thirteen (13) Township Six (6) South, Range Sixteen East containing in all fifteen (15) acres of land, subject to all legal highways.

TRACT II. Situated in the Township of Richland, County of Marion and State of Ohio. Being the east half (½) of the southwest quarter (¼) of Section 13, Township 6 South, of Range 16 East containing twenty (20) acres, more or less.

TRACT III. Situated in the Township of Richland, in the County of Marion and in the State of Ohio, and known as Fifteen Acres off of the East End of the North Half of the North West Quarter of Section Twenty-four in fractional Township Six (6) South of Range Sixteen (16) in the district of Lands Subject to Sale at Bucyrus, Ohio.

Also in the same Township, County and State and being known as the West Half of the North Half of the North East Quarter of Section Twenty-four (24) in fractional Township Six South of Range Sixteen (16) in the District of Lands subject to sale at Bucyrus, Ohio, containing forty acres, more or less, containing in the aggregate fifty-five acres more or less.

TRACT IV. Situated in the County of Morrow, in the State of Ohio and in the Township of Cardington and bounded and described as follows: And known as being Fifteen acres of land more or less in Section nineteen (19) Township Six (6) Range Seventeen (17) and described as follows to wit: Being that part of the West half of the East half of the South East Quarter of said Section Nineteen (19) lying North of the road running Westerly from Cardington and terminating near the residence of Sylvester Benedict and bounded on the North and East by lands of F. that the unknown heirs legatees, devisees, administrators, executors and assigns of the above named deceased persons respectively, and others, claim some interest in Tract I and Tract III of the above described real estate; that such interest is unfounded and without right and constitutes a cloud upon decedent's title to said real estate.

The prayer of the petition is that the defendants named as claiming some interest in Tract I and Tract III of said real estate be required to set forth the nature of their claims; that any adverse claims be determined and declared null and void; that such defendants be forever enjoined from asserting the same; that decendent be adjudged the owner of said real estate at the time of his death and his title thereto be quieted; that plaintiffs be authorized and ordered to sell all of said real estate above described to pay the legacies according to the direction of decedent's will; and for all other and further relief.

The persons above mentioned will further take notice that they have been made parties defendant to said petition and that they are required to answer the same on or before the 18th day of April, 1959.

RIGHTEOUS WRATH

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP) — One of the prime needs of modern churches is "the capacity for moral wrath," says the Rev. Dr. James W. Clarke, of Princeton Theological Seminary. Too many clergymen, he said, "can stand and gaze upon moral evil without their pulse increasing a single beat or without any rising anger."

BIG CITY SOUTHERNERS

OSU's Faculty Group Opposes Bowl Renewal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State University's Faculty Council has voted against further Rose Bowl participation.

At a meeting Tuesday, the 80-member body, by voice vote, instructed Dean Wendell D. Postle, faculty representative to the Big Ten, to cast his ballot against taking part in the post-season game.

The conference faculty representatives last weekend in Madison, Wis., had approved entering into negotiations to continue Big Ten Rose Bowl participation. Action of Ohio State's Faculty Council will serve to reopen the subject to another vote at the faculty representatives' next meeting late in May.

The Faculty Council's vote Tuesday followed submission of a statement of policy by the university's 10-member Athletic Council which favored continued Rose Bowl participation.

Ohio State has sent four teams to the Rose Bowl, three under the current Rose Bowl pact, the teams of 1949, 1954 and 1957. It played in the bowl once, in 1920, under the old pact.

In the past, Ohio State's vote on Rose Bowl participation has always been affirmative.
